Gimmick Probe Debated

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission probe of promotional games and stamps in the retail food industry—including a check of their legality -- and their effect on grocers' prices — has brought both cheers and jeers from industry spokesmen and housewives.

The FTC said Friday night in Washington it is particularly concerned that promotional schemes may curtail competition and that it may be the customers who pay for the gimmicks.

Both sides in the wave of protests across the country over food prices spoke up in an Associated Press survey following the FTC announcement.

In Dallas, Tex., Mrs. Philip L. Collins, head of the Women on Warpath Committee—one of many housewives' groups protesting high food prices-termed the FTC investigation "just a smoke screen to cover up inflation caused by government spending."

However, Mrs. Armand Herreras, of the Buffalo, N.Y., suburb of Williamsville and also a Warpath member, declared, "I'm thrilled about it. This is one of our aims, to bring about an investigation at this time."

In Seattle, Wash., a spokesman said chain stores have agreed to discontinue what the FTC termed "so-called 'sweepstakes' and other games of chance" pending a State Supreme Court ruling on a lawsuit. The suit was brought by the Consumer Protection Division of the state attorney general's office against Arden-Mayfair, Inc., to prohibit a game of chance under the state antilottery law.

F. N. McCowan, executive director of the Washington State Food Dealers Association, said, "I am sure if anyone looks into these things he will find that there is an additional cost to the consumer."

Mrs. Charles T. Lundstrum, president of the Greater Miami Consumers Civic League, Inc., said the FTC probe is "wonderful," adding: "That's what we need—an investigation and an end to these games. That's why food prices are so high."

On the issue of trading stamps, a supermarket chain in the Charlotte, N.C., area says its trading stamps cost it 1.75 per cent of total sales and if it stopped stamps and cut food prices by that amount, housewives would not notice the cut.

A chain spokesman said that stamps lead to volume sales and, if the stores lost volume purchasing power, they would have to rasie price-or certainly could not lower them.

A spokesman for several markets in Charlotte said its television dog racing game, for which it gives cash prizes, cost it only one-tenth of one per cent of sales.

Daylight Time Ends Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The daylight-standard time switchover nags its way into your life again Sunday. If you live in any of 19 states or parts of 17 others, the clock must go back an hour at 2 a.m. Sunday.

This is the last year — in principle, at least — for time-gerrymandering. Under the Uniform Time Act of 1966 that President Johnson signed April 14, all states must go along with fast time next summer unless the state legislature forbids it.

That, anyway, is the principle.

An Associated Press survey shows, however, that the confusion isn't over yet. Most states, including many divided into strange little time fiefs, haven't decided which way they will go next April when clocks get pushed ahead again.

In a state like Indiana, where Indianapolis is on Eastern Standard; the northwest part of the state is on Central Standard; and Vincennes, Terre Haute and Washington are on Central Daylight, legislators haven't made up their minds.

In Kentucky, which also has a series of time splits, they probably won't even get around to talking about the problem in time. The legislature isn't scheduled to reconvene until 1968.

It wasn't clear either what would happen to an enclave like Butte, Mont. It likes daylight time, but the rest of the state won't have any part of it.

Alabama is calling a special legislative session in January to make a decision on the matter, while its neighbor, Mississippi, has turned down a bill that would have committed the state to stay on standard time. In Louisiana two similar bills died in legislative committee.

Daylight saving time came from Britain where it was first used during World War I to save on fuel.

In the United States, most of the opposition to fast time has traditionally come from rural areas. The South has been the strongest standard time bastion.

Car Hits Bridge

Larry Shoaf, 22, was seriously injured in a one-car accident on Route Y, two miles north of Sikeston at 1:45 a.m. today.

Troopers said his car crossed to the wrong side of the road and struck a bridge abutment. Shoaf sustained face and leg cuts, bruises and shock.

His car was demolished.

Untried Troops Riddled

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Coming in waves through jungle and elephant grass, North Vietnamese army regulars pounced on untried troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Divisionn today and reports indicated the enemy attacks bloodied the Americans badly in their first taste of the war.

The attacks, near the Cambodian border 230 miles north of Saigon, were the first reported in weeks in which North Vietnamese regulars were engaged. The last attacks by North Vietnamese came about three weeks ago against U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Viet Nams.

In the fresh fighting, North Vietnamese guns downed three U.S. helicopters, one of them a medical evacuation craft that had just picked up American wounded.

The troops of the 4th Division came to Viet Nam in August and September from Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The division has one brigade based at the ammunition dump near Saigon that blew up after a Viet Cong attack Friday night with grenades, automatic weapons and mortar fire. One mortar round hit an ammunition storage pad, a U.S. spokesman said.

The remainder of the 4th Division set up a base camp near Pleiku in the central highlands.

The North Vietnamese launched five attacks against these division units in the highlands Friday night and today.

A U.S. spokesman described the infantrymen's casualties as moderate, indicating they were hit severely. Allied officials do not specify their own battle casualties in numbers for reasons of security.

Carol Hahs State Homecoming Queen

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Carol Hahs presided over Southeast Missouri State College homecoming activities this weekend as queen. She was elected by the student body.

Miss Hahs, 20, is a senior, a home economics major and daughter of Mrs. Frances Hahs of route one, Oak Ridge.

Her maids of honor were Sue Caine, Kirkwood, and Linda Reecht, Herculaneum.

Husband May Get Call To Testify

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (AP) -- A 95-year-old deaf millionaire may be carried from his wheel chair to the witness stand today to say whether he is being deprived of his freedom by a blonde ex-convict he married three days ago.

A. Otis Birch sat quietly through a four-hour court session Friday in which his new wife, Pearl Choate Birch, 59, testified.

A distant relative of Birch—Harlan J. Moehn of Danville, Iowa—charges that Mrs. Birch is restraining the elderly philanthropist's liberties.

In a habeas corpus action, he is asking that Mrs. Birch relinquish custody of the silver-haired Birch so he can be returned to his Pasadena, Calif., home.

A native of Yell County, Ark., Mrs. Birch, who has been married seven times, testified that she took Birch and his now deceased wife, Estelle, from California to Mexico late last May. The 205-pound, 5-foot-11 blonde had been their nurse for 10 months.

She said she had been a nurse since she was released from the Texas Penitentiary in 1963 after serving a sentence for murder.

She and the elderly couple, who had been married for 67 years, continued to Harlingen, Tex., and reached this west central Texas city Aug. 11.

"He (Birch) didn't care where he went as long as he could get away," she said. She added that he wanted to avoid certain relatives and officials of religious institutions in California to which he had donated perhaps $20 million in past years.

The first Mrs. Birch died Oct. 7.

Mrs. Birch said she had not told Birch of her criminal record until Tuesday.

"I told him I had a record, 22 years for murder. We left that night to get married," she said.

"Did you tell him how many times you've been married?" asked plaintiff lawyer Ben J. Dean Jr.

"He didn't ask," she said.

Minor Fire in Truck

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. proposals for withdrawal of "external forces" from South Viet Nam include the removal of 60,000 to 80,000 hard-core Communist infiltrators plus some 50,000 regular North Vietnamese troops, officials said today.

The officials gave the estimate when questioned about an apparent divergence between Defense Department statements and positions stated by U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg at the United Nations and in the communique signed in Manila by President Johnson and six allied chiefs of state.

In a letter dated Oct. 24 and made public Thursday, Townsend Hoopes, acting assistant secretary of defense, told Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., that the department believes the conditions include "the intent that Viet Cong military units would be deactivated."

State Department officials took the view that this went beyond Goldberg's Sept. 22 call in the U.N. General Assembly for a phased withdrawal "of all external forces, those of North Viet Nam as well as those of the United States and other countries aiding South Viet Nam."

But professional diplomats said the United States is not ready to spell out publicly all its conditions for a withdrawal agreement. If every detail was spelled out, they said, this could be a barrier to progress.

However, officials said the Manila communique and Gold-

$2,600 Theft In Scott City

SCOTT CITY - An estimated $2,600 to $2,800 in cash and checks was taken Friday morning from Baker's Finer food Store, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

The money was in three money bags kept in a wooden drawer beneath the cash register in the front of the store. About half of the amount taken was in checks.

The money bags were noticed missing at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Alvie Baker, wife of the store manager, was working the front counter Friday morning.

She had left the counter a few times during the morning to stock shelves, Dennis said. Apparently a thief came in and took the money while she was away from the counter.

Only three persons were working in the store Friday. Mrs. Baker, her husband, who was working in the meat department, and a clerk, Lonnie Drindley, who was stocking shelves.

About 30 customers had been in the store between 9 and 11 a.m., the time during which the theft occurred.

Police were notified. Banks were called to stop payment on the checks.

Scott County authorities are investigating.

Three Named in Finance Drive

Bill Huff, finance chairman for the Girl Scout Cotton Boll council, today announced appointment of Mrs. Stanley Schindler, Jim Mac Emerson and Mrs. Phillip Newman as fund drive chairman for Morehouse, Morley and Vanduser respectively.

The council's goal is $31,000 for 1967 activities.

The youth movement is for girls, 7 through 17.

LBJ Renews Peace, Aid Offers

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — President Johnson combined a renewed peace bid to Hanoi today with beefed up support for Thailand, a Southeast Asia ally facing a growing Red terrorist threat.

Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn reported U.S. arms aid was being increased one-third. Other sources said U.S. military assistance would climb to $60 million in fiscal 1967, up $20 million from fiscal 1966.

Although the Thai leader spoke of the arms aid rise after an hour-long meeting with Johnson, other informants said Washington's decision to increase help had been made shortly before the President set off on his 31,000-mile swing through the Far East.

Thailand is a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization ally, a partner in the Vietnamese war, and a major base for U.S. forces. It also receives sizable economic assistance from the United States, currently running upwards of $40 million a year.

Johnson renewed his call for a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese conflict in a speech at Chulalongkorn University.

"I say to the leaders in Hanoi let us lay aside our arms and sit down together at the table of reason," Johnson said.

The North Vietnamese leadership has repeatedly rejected past U.S. offers of unconditional peace discussions and there was no evidence that it is ready to change its position.

At the university, where he was granted an honorary degree of doctor of political science, Johnson signed the International Education Act that Congress passed just after he departed for the Far East.

Sunday Johnson flies on to Kuala Lumpur for a day in Malaysia. He goes to South Korea from there.

Johnson emphasized to the Thai leadership his pleasure at what he said was Thai understanding of the need for economic and social measures to help Thailand's people, particularly in the undeveloped northeastern provinces where the Red threat is greatest. But he said Thailand was wise to recognize early the need to meet the Communist threat there.

Saying that communism feeds on misery, Johnson said he would order Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin to see what might be done to help in a five-year economic development program.

Thanom had told Johnson about plans for a multimillion-dollar five-year program for economic and social development to encompass health, education, electric power, highway and other development programs.

Reporting on his government's struggle with Communist guerrilla forces in the northeastern part of the country, Thanom said Communist activity had decreased in recent weeks while defections from their ranks have increased.

"But the Communists have not given up," he cautioned.

In his response, Johnson said South Viet Nam is only the first target of the Communists and that they are looking at Southeast Asia as a whole. It is important to "stop them where they are," he added.

The United States has about 27,000 servicemen in Thailand, mostly Air Force men who use Thai bases to bomb North Viet Nam.

During his address at the university, Johnson appealed to North Vietnamese leaders to "renounce the work of death—and take up instead the task of the living."

"Enough of this sorrow. Let us bring the work of healing, teaching, building and providing for the children of men. This is the purpose for which we were really made. This is what our age asks us to do," the President said.

He forecast a big increase in American aid for Southeast Asia once peace comes to Viet Nam.

"It is my hope, and indeed my firm expectation, that as soon as Hanoi accepts reality and the war in Viet Nam ends, it will be possible to devote substantially greater funds to the relief of human need — to the enrichment of life," Johnson said.

Peace in Asia and improvement in living standards for its populace has been a major theme of Johnson speeches on his Far East tour.

He leaves Sunday for Malaysia after another round of events today in Thailand's capital.

Sources here and in Korea reported, meanwhile, that Johnson may skip an overnight stop in Anchorage, Alaska, on his return to Washington from Seoul Nov. 2.

Johnson, who received an honorary degree at Chulalongkorn University, also used the occasion to sign into law the International Education Act passed by Congress shortly after he embarked on his trip to seven Asian nations.

Injuries of Six Treated in Hospital

Six persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital Friday:

Watch Taken

A watch valued at $50 was reported stolen Friday from the residence of Al Dye, 349 School, police said. Police said the watch was taken while Dye was taking a shower.

35 Appointments Made For Mobile Dental Unit

A mobile dental unit complete with dentist, assistant and public health nurse will begin to provide dental care to crippled children in the Sikeston area Monday.

Open house for public inspection of the facility parked on the Elks Lodge parking lot at 938 South Main will be from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Thirty five appointments with crippled children between the ages of 2 and 21 are scheduled during the first week. The length of stay here is expected to be more than a month.

Names of crippled children were supplied to the public health nurse by the Missouri Crippled Children's Service.

The unit will serve children in Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi counties.

Four such mobile unit has been purchased by the Elks of Missouri. The state division of health furnishes supplies and personnel.

All children must have clearance from their physicians to receive treatment.

Dr. Rex Mortensen of Trenton, Utah, will be the dentist on duty. His assistant is Wilma Lintner of Kansas City.

Mrs. Jean Jacobs, Cape Girardeau, public health nurse, has contacted parents of eligible patients obtaining requests for dental services.

This is the first time the mobile dental unit has visited Sikeston. In previous years, it has operated at Dexter and New Madrid.

After treating children in the area, the unit will go to Chaffee and then to Charleston.

ONE OF THE PLEASANT DUTIES of serving as University of Missouri homecoming queen is meeting officials and alumni throughout the state. Barbara Marie Brown, brown-haired, brown-eyed, 1966 University homecoming queen, visited Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his office in Jefferson City. Miss Brown, a senior in the college of education, majoring in elementary education, from Ferguson.

Art Show to Feature Rhinehart, Mueller

CHARLESTON - Artist M. Charles Rhinehart and Sculptor Harvey Mueller will be featured in the second art show presented by the Mississippi County Historical society and art gallery, 202 East Commerical Street.

The two-man show opens Nov. 6, with a reception from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and will last through Nov. 30.

Gallery hours are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily and Sunday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Rhinehart teaches art classes in Sikeston. A self-taught artist, he lives and works in St. Genevieve.

Until 1962, Rhinehart made his living from an outdoor advertising operation and church decorating. Then he and his wife and ten children decided to give up the other business and obtain their livlihood from art.

His paintings, nearly all oils, are found in collections in almost every state.

In 1964 he won the Popular Prize Award in the Mid-South Show at Brooks Memorial Gallery in Memphis, and he has had one-man shows in Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, and Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. Twice he has been invited to show at the Illinois state museum. Works of his have been in the St. Louis Art Museum and the Springfield, Mo., Museum.

He is best known for his weed pots.

Mueller's honors include awards for sculpture and crafts in the Kirkwood, Crestwood, and South-County Art Fairs in St. Louis county; acceptance in the past three Mid-South exhibits at Memphis; first prize for a crafts exhibit at the 1964 KETC art auction in St. Louis; acceptance in the 23rd National Ceramics show at Syracuse, N. Y., a merit award in the Mid-States Exhibition at the Evansville, Ind., museum of arts and science.

Sculpting is not the only talent this native Missourian has. He plays a trumpet and has a 12-man band which performs in Southeast Missouri.

This will be the third two-man show for Rhinehart and Mueller. The others were at the art mart in Clayton and the Richard Long gallery in Kirkwood.

Untried Troops Riddled

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Coming in waves through jungle and elephant grass, North Vietnamese army regulars pounced on untried troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Divisionn today and reports indicated the enemy attacks bloodied the Americans badly in their first taste of the war.

The attacks, near the Cambodian border 230 miles north of Saigon, were the first reported in weeks in which North Vietnamese regulars were engaged. The last attacks by North Vietnamese came about three weeks ago against U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Viet Nams.

In the fresh fighting, North Vietnamese guns downed three U.S. helicopters, one of them a medical evacuation craft that had just picked up American wounded.

The troops of the 4th Division came to Viet Nam in August and September from Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The division has one brigade based at the ammunition dump near Saigon that blew up after a Viet Cong attack Friday night with grenades, automatic weapons and mortar fire. One mortar round hit an ammunition storage pad, a U.S. spokesman said.

The remainder of the 4th Division set up a base camp near Pleiku in the central highlands.

The North Vietnamese launched five attacks against these division units in the highlands Friday night and today.

A U.S. spokesman described the infantrymen's casualties as moderate, indicating they were hit severely. Allied officials do not specify their own battle casualties in numbers for reasons of security.

Carol Hahs State Homecoming Queen

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Carol Hahs presided over Southeast Missouri State College homecoming activities this weekend as queen. She was elected by the student body.

Miss Hahs, 20, is a senior, a home economics major and daughter of Mrs. Frances Hahs of route one, Oak Ridge.

Her maids of honor were Sue Caine, Kirkwood, and Linda Reecht, Herculaneum.

Husband May Get Call To Testify

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (AP) -- A 95-year-old deaf millionaire may be carried from his wheel chair to the witness stand today to say whether he is being deprived of his freedom by a blonde ex-convict he married three days ago.

A. Otis Birch sat quietly through a four-hour court session Friday in which his new wife, Pearl Choate Birch, 59, testified.

A distant relative of Birch—Harlan J. Moehn of Danville, Iowa—charges that Mrs. Birch is restraining the elderly philanthropist's liberties.

In a habeas corpus action, he is asking that Mrs. Birch relinquish custody of the silver-haired Birch so he can be returned to his Pasadena, Calif., home.

A native of Yell County, Ark., Mrs. Birch, who has been married seven times, testified that she took Birch and his now deceased wife, Estelle, from California to Mexico late last May. The 205-pound, 5-foot-11 blonde had been their nurse for 10 months.

She said she had been a nurse since she was released from the Texas Penitentiary in 1963 after serving a sentence for murder.

She and the elderly couple, who had been married for 67 years, continued to Harlingen, Tex., and reached this west central Texas city Aug. 11.

"He (Birch) didn't care where he went as long as he could get away," she said. She added that he wanted to avoid certain relatives and officials of religious institutions in California to which he had donated perhaps $20 million in past years.

The first Mrs. Birch died Oct. 7.

Mrs. Birch said she had not told Birch of her criminal record until Tuesday.

"I told him I had a record, 22 years for murder. We left that night to get married," she said.

"Did you tell him how many times you've been married?" asked plaintiff lawyer Ben J. Dean Jr.

"He didn't ask," she said.

Minor Fire in Truck

Firemen extinguished a minor fire Friday afternoon in a truck driven by Bill Hecker, Bertrand.

An electrical short was believed to have caused the fire. Only wiring was damaged, firemen said.

The truck was on Interstate 57 west when the fire occurred.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. proposals for withdrawal of "external forces" from South Viet Nam include the removal of 60,000 to 80,000 hard-core Communist infiltrators plus some 50,000 regular North Vietnamese troops, officials said today.

The officials gave the estimate when questioned about an apparent divergence between Defense Department statements and positions stated by U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg at the United Nations and in the communique signed in Manila by President Johnson and six allied chiefs of state.

In a letter dated Oct. 24 and made public Thursday, Townsend Hoopes, acting assistant secretary of defense, told Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., that the department believes the conditions include "the intent that Viet Cong military units would be deactivated."

State Department officials took the view that this went beyond Goldberg's Sept. 22 call in the U.N. General Assembly for a phased withdrawal "of all external forces, those of North Viet Nam as well as those of the United States and other countries aiding South Viet Nam."

But professional diplomats said the United States is not ready to spell out publicly all its conditions for a withdrawal agreement. If every detail was spelled out, they said, this could be a barrier to progress.

However, officials said the Manila communique and Gold-

$2,600 Theft In Scott City

SCOTT CITY - An estimated $2,600 to $2,800 in cash and checks was taken Friday morning from Baker's Finer food Store, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

The money was in three money bags kept in a wooden drawer beneath the cash register in the front of the store. About half of the amount taken was in checks.

The money bags were noticed missing at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Alvie Baker, wife of the store manager, was working the front counter Friday morning.

She had left the counter a few times during the morning to stock shelves, Dennis said. Apparently a thief came in and took the money while she was away from the counter.

Only three persons were working in the store Friday. Mrs. Baker, her husband, who was working in the meat department, and a clerk, Lonnie Drindley, who was stocking shelves.

About 30 customers had been in the store between 9 and 11 a.m., the time during which the theft occurred.

Police were notified. Banks were called to stop payment on the checks.

Scott County authorities are investigating.

35 Appointments Made For Mobile Dental Unit

A mobile dental unit complete with dentist, assistant and public health nurse will begin to provide dental care to crippled children in the Sikeston area Monday.

Open house for public inspection of the facility parked on the Elks Lodge parking lot at 938 South Main will be from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Thirty five appointments with crippled children between the ages of 2 and 21 are scheduled during the first week. The length of stay here is expected to be more than a month.

Names of crippled children were supplied to the public health nurse by the Missouri Crippled Children's Service.

The unit will serve children in Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi counties.

Four such mobile unit has been purchased by the Elks of Missouri. The state division of health furnishes supplies and personnel.

All children must have clearance from their physicians to receive treatment.

Dr. Rex Mortensen of Trenton, Utah, will be the dentist on duty. His assistant is Wilma Lintner of Kansas City.

Mrs. Jean Jacobs, Cape Girardeau, public health nurse, has contacted parents of eligible patients obtaining requests for dental services.

This is the first time the mobile dental unit has visited Sikeston. In previous years, it has operated at Dexter and New Madrid.

After treating children in the area, the unit will go to Chaffee and then to Charleston.

Three Named in Finance Drive

Bill Huff, finance chairman for the Girl Scout Cotton Boll council, today announced appointment of Mrs. Stanley Schindler, Jim Mac Emerson and Mrs. Phillip Newman as fund drive chairman for Morehouse, Morley and Vanduser respectively.

The council's goal is $31,000 for 1967 activities.

The youth movement is for girls, 7 through 17.

Art Show to Feature Rhinehart, Mueller

CHARLESTON - Artist M. Charles Rhinehart and Sculptor Harvey Mueller will be featured in the second art show presented by the Mississippi County Historical society and art gallery, 202 East Commerical Street.

The two-man show opens Nov. 6, with a reception from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and will last through Nov. 30.

Gallery hours are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily and Sunday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Rhinehart teaches art classes in Sikeston. A self-taught artist, he lives and works in St. Genevieve.

Until 1962, Rhinehart made his living from an outdoor advertising operation and church decorating. Then he and his wife and ten children decided to give up the other business and obtain their livlihood from art.

His paintings, nearly all oils, are found in collections in almost every state.

In 1964 he won the Popular Prize Award in the Mid-South Show at Brooks Memorial Gallery in Memphis, and he has had one-man shows in Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, and Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. Twice he has been invited to show at the Illinois state museum. Works of his have been in the St. Louis Art Museum and the Springfield, Mo., Museum.

He is best known for his weed pots.

Mueller's honors include awards for sculpture and crafts in the Kirkwood, Crestwood, and South-County Art Fairs in St. Louis county; acceptance in the past three Mid-South exhibits at Memphis; first prize for a crafts exhibit at the 1964 KETC art auction in St. Louis; acceptance in the 23rd National Ceramics show at Syracuse, N. Y., a merit award in the Mid-States Exhibition at the Evansville, Ind., museum of arts and science.

Sculpting is not the only talent this native Missourian has. He plays a trumpet and has a 12-man band which performs in Southeast Missouri.

This will be the third two-man show for Rhinehart and Mueller. The others were at the art mart in Clayton and the Richard Long gallery in Kirkwood.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
YOUR VOTE COUNTS ON NOV. 8

Some citizens have the erroneous impression that it matters little whether they go to the polls and vote in a national election.

The record shows the fallacy of this theory.

In three presidential elections in strategic states during the past 50 years the difference of one vote in each precinct would have changed the outcome of the election.

In 1916, Charles Evans Hughes went to bed in the belief that he had been elected president.

On the following morning the count in California disclosed that Woodrow Wilson had carried the state by 3,806 votes out of nearly a million votes which were cast. One vote per precinct in California would have changed the outcome.

Another close election was recorded in 1948. Harry S. Truman carried Ohio by only 7,107 votes out of three million votes in that state. In California, Truman bested Dewey by 17,-865 votes out of about four million votes in the Pacific Coast state.

These relative few votes were enough to add 50 electoral votes to Truman's total, electing him to the presidency. A difference of one vote a precinct in each of these states would have switched 50 votes to the Dewey column, throwing the decision into the House of Representatives.

There were almost 69 million Americans who voted in the national election in 1960 in which the candidates were John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon. Kennedy topped Nixon in the nation by a plurality of only 112,253 votes.

About half of one per cent of the votes in two states, Illinois and New Jersey, swung 43 electoral votes to Kennedy. A slight increase or change in only two states would have shifted the decision to the House of Representatives.

In Indiana in 1962, Homer E. Capehart was defeated for United States Senator by Birch E. Bayh by 10,944 votes. The difference between victory and defeat was about two and one-half votes per precinct.

Matthew E. Welsh was chosen as governor of Indiana in 1960 in an election in which over two million votes were cast. He defeated Crawford F. Parker by 23,177 votes.

These close elections indicate the fact that every vote is important.

All registered voters should go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

SEVEN BASIC "START CHECKS" HELP THWART WINTER'S BITE

Falling leaves and falling temperatures mean that mosquito bites will be replaced as the number one gripe of Americans by the bite of winter. Area motorists can prepare their cars for winter now so they can "Take the Bite Out of Winter" later.

There are seven basic checks to remember to help assure yourself of being able to start the family buggy on the frosty winter mornings sure to come. The "Start Checks" are:

1. Install light weight oil, referring to your car manufacturers' chart.
2. Check your automatic choke and manifold heater.
3. Check your battery and battery cables.
4. Check your car's points, plugs and condenser.
5. Pressure test your car's cooling system.
6. Check your thermostat, heater and defroster.
7. Install sufficient anti-freeze.

All cars, regardless of age or mileage, require these basic checks and preparations to assure summer starts in winter. We advise that you have your car totally winterized for reliable transportation all winter.

"Take the Bite Out of Winter."

Yul Brynner, he of the shiny dome, once said: "Whoever called women the weaker sex never saw them drive a car or buy a dress during a sale."

Brynner may have been out of his element expounding upon traffic safety, but his comment brings up a significant development in the perennial debate over the relative driving abilities of men and women.

Most auto insurance companies have begun charging women under the age of 25 more than the over-25 group for policies, or are contemplating this move. Men under 25 long have paid a surcharge for their insurance.

Here are some of the reasons: More women are working and driving in the same dense traffic that men are, more women than ever before are driving too fast for conditions, and women under 25 often allow men to drive their cars--men under 25 in many cases.

A look at the record (as lawyers like to say) indicates that women as drivers have been getting steadily worse. National Safety Council records show that the number of female drivers in fatal accidents rose from a rate of 29 per one billion miles driven in 1958, to 38 in 1964. On the other hand, the rate for male drivers remained the same --80.

Women, of course, will point out that according to these figures they still are twice as good as men at driving. But, anyone can see that such talk is irrelevant.

Despite the findings of impartial authorities, women still have the audacity to defend themselves.

Mrs. B.V. Todd, director of women's activities for the Automotive Safety Foundation, even went so far as to blame men for women's accidents.

"Men drivers are very annoying," she said. "They'll turn in front of you, never signal, nor sound a horn..."

Now listen here, Mrs. Todd, the other day a woman driver.....

The mighty midgets--classified advertisements--have been proved by centuries of testing.

A survey conducted by a Minnesota newspaper revealed that 84 percent of their readers read want ads once a week or more; 35 percent said they read the ads every day. Tests of readership on smaller dailies and weeklies indicate that 98 percent of the readers cover the want ad section.

The amazingly high readership of classified advertising is not its major benefit. People who read want ads usually are in the market for something specific.

Classified readers scan each ad selectively, and advertisers are consistently brought to the readers' attention. Many large firms insist on consistent classified advertising as well as large display ads in order to have full coverage of the market.

Classified is one of the oldest mediums of advertising known. In fact, some experts have traced it back to ancient Egypt. Since its appearance in early Egypt, it has been used to stimulate trade and serve individuals.

Use of classifieds has been notably successful in many instances. John Wanamaker, founder of one of the world's great stores, was a consistent user of classifieds.

Groucho Marx broke into show business by answering a classified ad. And the two great businessmen, Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck, were brought together because of a classified ad.

Classified advertising cannot be duplicated by other media. It gives complete advertising coverage to local merchants, as well as thousands of individuals who have anything to sell.

Edgar Blanton says: "One day we read that labor has struck for higher wages, which they always get. A few days later we read that folks are complaining about the cost of living going up, which was one of the reasons labor wanted higher wages. We may not be here at this time next year but if we are, we guess that the cost of living will have caught up with wages, and the wheel will continue to turn. Looks like there isn't anything in sight which will let us all live contentedly on what we get and on what we give."

The woman of today is very much like her sister who lived in this hemisphere centuries before Columbus discovered America. At least that's what physicians concluded who flocked to see a recent Chicago exhibit of pre-Columbian sculpture. The clay figures, some of them 4,000 years old, tell the vivid story of a people who flourished in Central and South America centures before the Aztecs, Incas or Mayans. According to Dr. Abner I. Weisman, owner of the fabulous colands of clay figures, women in many ways haven't changed much in 40 centuries. He said that the little pre-Columbian girl, as girls today, played with toys of all kinds and with dolls. And as she grew older she loved to wear jewelry and pretty clothes. Young women, then, as now, wanted to be attractive to the opposite sex. Many sculptures show women with beautiful elaborate hairdos, rouged faces and adorned with jewels.

STERN ACTION IS NEEDED

The war in Viet Nam has completely altered this nation's budget situation. We are committed to a major effort, which is being escalated, at an unpredictable cost. It will run far into the billions, and there is no end now in sight.

Reports from Washington say that orders have gone out to the federal agencies to cut costs in every possible way. But administrative cuts, desirable as they are, will not be enough. There must be a basic change in policy as well. That needed change can be expressed in a short sentence: It is essential that government do nothing, and pay for nothing, that can be provided by taxpaying private enterprise using private capital and savings.

This means, above all, that government should not engage in commercial business.

Numbers of examples could be cited. Electric power is among the best. It is a proven fact that the investor-owned industry is able and eager to meet any demand for power that exists now or will exist in the future. It will use the most advanced technology in doing this, providing the ultimate in service standards at the most modest feasible cost. It will make the most of all sources of electric energy -- coal, oil, falling water, the atom.

If the industry is permitted to do the job, the government will be spared the huge expenditures that are proposed for tax-exempt socialized power systems. On top of that, it will gain in the heavy taxes the investor-owned utilities will pay.

What is left of the dollar's value is at stake. Stern action must be taken -- and taken now.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The Liberty Lobby and the extremist views of its founder, Willis Carto, that Jews are at the root of the nation's troubles and that all Negroes should be deported to Africa, might be kissed off as unimportant were it not for two things.

First, the lobby managed to deluge the nation with 20 million pieces of political literature during the 1964 campaign, part of the "LBJ: A Political "Biography" smear sheet against the President.

Second, the lobby has managed to attract the support of various retired admirals and generals plus campaign funds from some businessmen. The latter include Joseph H. Pew of the Sun Oil Company, who contributed $1,000 to the lobby in 1963.

Finally, the lobby was able to entice four senators into appearing on the Liberty Lobby's radio series, "Congress Calling." They were Senators Mundt, R-S. C., McClellan, D-Ark., Dirksen, R-Ill., and Lausche, D-Ohio. The series appeared in 1962, but was short-lived. The senators eventually got wise to who was backing the program.

LIBERTY ROLL CALL

So that no other responsible senators get sucked into supporting this hate organization, we think it important that the public know just who are its regular sponsors. Its Chairman is Curtis Dall, former son-in-law of President Roosevelt, who has testified in the senate regarding what he claims is the zionist conspiracy.

The 1965 board of policy for the Liberty Lobby is heavily sprinkled with retired admirals and generals, as follows:

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, former commander of the air force in Korea, now living in Winter Park, Fla.

Lt. Gen. Sumter L. Lowry, N. G. U. S. Ret., of Tampa, Fla., who once ran for governor of Florida.

Vice Admiral C. S. Freeman, U. S. N. Ret., New York City.

Maj. Arch E. Roberts, U. S. A. R., Ret., of Fort Collins, Colo., author of Gen. Edwin Walker's Pro - Blue program, which figured in the army's investigation of the general.

Lt. Col. Frederick A. Kibbe, U. S. A. R. Ret., founder of the Florida Minutemen and a candidate for congress, now living in Fort Lauderdale.

Brig. Gen. Richard M. Moran, U. S. A. Ret., Kerrville, Tex., organizer of "Tell'em," which merged with the Liberty Lobby in 1963.

The board of policy also includes some staunch California backers of Ronald Reagan, such as Mrs. Gertrude Bale of Pasadena, former chairman of the network of Patriotic Letter Writers; Adm. Charles M. Cooke, of Sonoma, former commander of the 7th Fleet; Karl Prussion of San Diego, the famous red - baiter; Vernon G. Linderman of Bakersfield, and Mrs. R. R. Sischo of Merced, President of the Citizens Action Committee.

Others on the board of policy also are Joseph P. Kamp of Westport, Conn., founder of the Constitutional Educational League; Tyler Kent, who was imprisoned in the Tower of Longon during the war for having given information to the enemy while a member of the American Embassy Staff; Louis Zoul of New York City, Painter and Pamphleteer; R. G. Johnson of Rogers, Ark., author of "Patriots of Northern Arkansas."

LBJ AND KREMLIN

One of the chief campaigns of the Liberty Lobby recently has been to charge that President Johnson doesn't want to win the war in Viet Nam.

"Liberty Lowdown," described as "a confidential Washington report supply only to Liberty Lobby pledgers," recently charged that the United States was in "secret agreement" with the Kremlin.

"It must be interjected that there is not the slightest equivocation on that point," stated Liberty Lowdown. "Our government does not want to win; and it is this fact that makes futile and foolish all concepts that any conservatives might have about the right way to win the war. The fact which cannot be dismissed is that the real enemy of the American people is in Washington, D. C., nowhere else.

"Liberty Lobby has in its possession a report on the existence of a secret agreement between the Washington regime and the Kremlin which has never been ratified by the senate -- and which indeed is not even known to the vast majority of officials in Washington, but which explains perfectly the reason why we cannot win."

"Part of this deal is that the United States shall not allow Chiang Kai - Shek to leave his island, and that is why the regime refuses to use his troops in Viet Nam."

Note 1 -- This column can report that actually the United States has approached Chiang Kai - Shek for the use of Chinese nationalist troops in Viet Nam but was turned down. This was why President Johnson during his trip through the Far East studiously avoided stopping in Taipei to pay his respects to Chiang Kai-Shek.

Note 2-- When this column reported that the Senate testimony of Curtis Dall, chairman of the Liberty Lobby and former son - in - law of President Roosevelt, was anti-semitic, Dall sued us for $2 million but lost in the lower courts and all the way up to the Supreme Court.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

New Labor Force Unionizing West Point And Military, Naval, Air Bases Across World.

Washington, D. C.: -- A lot of the Pentagon brass have been "empire building" at bases across the U. S. and around the world.

This is done by replacing civilian employes with at least 117,000 young soldiers. The new troops have been manicuring golf courses, serving officers in private clubs, working as sales clerks at PX's, as well as maintaining automobile and military equipment.

Of the 117,000 men, at least 3,400 still are in the golf course contigent type of work. But as a result of an offensive by the fastest growing union in the land, the American Federation of Government Employes (AFGE) (AFL-CIO), Defense Secy. McNamara has been liquidating the generals' personal empires.

The 3,400 young men, many of them drafted into the armed forces, will be out of the personal service categories by New Year's eve, McNamara promised the union.

"This is great," said one critic of empire building, "because the bigger the contigent around the general's headquarters, the bigger his ego, the heavier his brass, and the tighter his cap and britches."

By next July 1, at least 74,000 other soldiers will have been taken out of civilian work around bases stretching from Washington to Okinawa. Another 40,000 will start going back into direct military operations beginning that day.

Naturally this has pleased the virtually unknown government employes' federation (AFGE) and its president, John F. Griner. McNamara's move will mean more civilian jobs -- but just as important to some of the union men is the fact that tens of thousands of young men have been needlessly drafted. The question which has been asked is: Why take the men out of their civilian lives merely to put them into uniform and thrust them back into civilian tasks as garage mechanics, office clerks and bowling alley pin boys?

Of course, Griner and his staff also are delighted with the chance to gain recruits amongst the new civilian workers. AFGE now is one of the country's most dynamic labor operations, albeit one of the least known.

It is growing at the rate of over 5,000 new members a month -- all the way from Puerto Rico to Japan.

One of its most dramatic successes is the windup of the long drive to unionize U. S. armed forces training academies. This will come within two weeks when AFGE officials, after consulting with their West Point local, sit down with the U. S. Military Academy's superintendent and negotiate a brand new contract.

The union still is driving to sign up the final 500 civilian workers there -- ranging from kitchen help to office staffs, fiscal people, controllers and transportation workers. In all there are 1,716 in this unit. In a second group there are some 300 supervisors such as shop foremen -- in fact everything below the top echelon of managerial executives.

Once this contract is signed, the union will have mopped up all the academies -- Annapolis; the Air Force installation at Colorado Springs, Colo.; the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.; and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point (L.I., N.Y.).

One of the AFGE's recent coups is signing the first cabinet-level nationwide exclusive agreement with the government itself -- namely, the Department of Labor.

With some 230,000 members now on the books, the AFGE is hitting out for another 270,000 members in the next year and finally for a top target of one million. Behind AFGE now is Walter Reuther's AFL-CIO Industrial Union Dept. (IUD) and its organizing genius, Jack Conway. It was the IUD which supplied the first $5,000 -- and five special organizers -- just to equip and man the New York-New Jersey regional office which successfully signed up West Point.

And so with the Pentagon and West Point under its belt, the AFGE caissons go rolling along in the drive to unionize the entire U.S. government wherever it reaches across the world.

WARS ARE FOR WINNING

SAIGON, Vietnam - Last summer General "Swede" Larsen, just back from Vietnam, was invited to make some comments to the press at the Pentagon's noon briefing. He bluntly said that Vietcong divisions were using "neutral" Cambodia as a sanctuary.

The State Department hit the ceiling. The general, like Galileo, was forced to recant. Another hurried press conference was called at which the general lamely stated that intelligence available to higher echelons of authority did not agree with his "estimate." Someone should have called in General McAuliffe, the hero of Bastogne, to holler, "Nuts!"

I HAVEN'T seen a situation map in Vietnam that hasn't pinpointed the location of major Cong forces regrouping and retraining on the Cambodian side.

On page 14 of the U.S. Handbook for Armed Forces in Vietnam the Vietcong fighting philosophy is described as: "When the enemy advances, withdraw; when he defends, harass; when he is tired, attack, when he withdraws, pursue."

The obvious countermove for a force with superior firepower is to chase the enemy until he drops, and if, at a future time, this outfit gathers to regroup hit it hard before it gets organized.

But we are fighting a war in Vietnam with our entire flank exposed. Any time a Cong battalion is chewed up it can gallop across the Cambodian border, and, not only must we not chase it, we must officially pretend it didn't escape at all.

Why? In Heaven's name, why?

STRICTLY not for attribution, they'll tell you this in Saigon; It is possible that if we don't push Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk he'll come around. A year ago he was blowing a tuba in the VC band. Since then he's showing signs of having second thoughts. He only has a small army, and besides he may not really know where these Cong outfits are.

Didn't a party of dedicated left-wingers, headed by Floyd McKissick of CORE, tour several kilometers on the Cambodian side a few weeks ago and report positively that the belief that the VC is using Cambodia as a sanctuary exists only in the fevered minds of right-wing extremists?

Besides (goes the argument) we must pay attention to "world opinion." If we moved across into Cambodia to clobber the Cong the tears from the U.N. would raise the East River two feet.

BUT the American soldier who is killed by a VC regiment striking in from Cambodia is a very dead boy. There's not much future in standing around letting the enemy pick the time and place to hit you, particularly when, after you've taken your casualties and got him running, your pursuit comes to a screeching halt when he hoists a King's -X flag from a "neutral" flagpole.

The communist technique of throwing a peaceful people into confusion and despair by assassinating village chiefs is already afoot in eastern Thailand. Is Cambodia going to be a sanctuary for a Red war against the Thais if the effort to conquer Vietnam fails?

SURE, every time we do anything that makes military sense we'll get a blizzard of dead cats for "escalating" the war. The Russians and their puppets would like to see us bleed as long as possible. The newly independent African and Asian nations, with colonialism a fresh memory, look with suspicion on any largely white army shooting at people with colored skins.

There's the cheer-for-the-underdog complex that sees the brave little Vietcong David standing against the huge American Goliath. There are sincere Americans who feel that this is the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time. The British, having lost their empire, are now more isolationist than the late Colonel McCormick. General De Gaulle sounds like a man who can't stand the thought of the Americans winning where the French lost.

In addition, we've got our own hard core fellow-travelers, entrenched in colleges, church organizations, and the press, who are trying to sound like millions. Not since the Tories of Revolutionary days in America contained such an open Fifth Column, we never had parades of people offering to send blood to Sitting Bull, the Kaiser or Adolf Hitler.

And, finally, there are the Nervous Nellies who fear we'll stir up Mao. Mao is riding the biggest paper tiger in modern history, a nation with a runaway population, marginal food, and now rendered chaotic by youth gangs. If Mao had the stuff he'd hit us regardless of any appeasement. Give him credit. He had said so.

We are at war. If we are going to fight it gently in order to please Oxford societies and witch doctors in striped pants let's pull out, for American lads are dying magnificiently, but dying just the same. And if we're going to stay in, let's win it.

Hell, yes, the Vietcong are using Cambodia. And, instead of shushing "Swede" Larsen, the State Department ought to send a note to Phnom Penh that drops the "Your Excellency" and says, simply, "Look, Buster. If you can't get'em out, we will."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
YOUR VOTE COUNTS ON NOV. 8

Some citizens have the erroneous impression that it matters little whether they go to the polls and vote in a national election.

The record shows the fallacy of this theory.

In three presidential elections in strategic states during the past 50 years the difference of one vote in each precinct would have changed the outcome of the election.

In 1916, Charles Evans Hughes went to bed in the belief that he had been elected president.

On the following morning the count in California disclosed that Woodrow Wilson had carried the state by 3,806 votes out of nearly a million votes which were cast. One vote per precinct in California would have changed the outcome.

Another close election was recorded in 1948. Harry S. Truman carried Ohio by only 7,107 votes out of three million votes in that state. In California, Truman bested Dewey by 17,-865 votes out of about four million votes in the Pacific Coast state.

These relative few votes were enough to add 50 electoral votes to Truman's total, electing him to the presidency. A difference of one vote a precinct in each of these states would have switched 50 votes to the Dewey column, throwing the decision into the House of Representatives.

There were almost 69 million Americans who voted in the national election in 1960 in which the candidates were John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon. Kennedy topped Nixon in the nation by a plurality of only 112,253 votes.

About half of one per cent of the votes in two states, Illinois and New Jersey, swung 43 electoral votes to Kennedy. A slight increase or change in only two states would have shifted the decision to the House of Representatives.

In Indiana in 1962, Homer E. Capehart was defeated for United States Senator by Birch E. Bayh by 10,944 votes. The difference between victory and defeat was about two and one-half votes per precinct.

Matthew E. Welsh was chosen as governor of Indiana in 1960 in an election in which over two million votes were cast. He defeated Crawford F. Parker by 23,177 votes.

These close elections indicate the fact that every vote is important.

All registered voters should go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

SEVEN BASIC "START CHECKS" HELP THWART WINTER'S BITE

Falling leaves and falling temperatures mean that mosquito bites will be replaced as the number one gripe of Americans by the bite of winter. Area motorists can prepare their cars for winter now so they can "Take the Bite Out of Winter" later.

There are seven basic checks to remember to help assure yourself of being able to start the family buggy on the frosty winter mornings sure to come. The "Start Checks" are:

1. Install light weight oil, referring to your car manufacturers' chart.
2. Check your automatic choke and manifold heater.
3. Check your battery and battery cables.
4. Check your car's points, plugs and condenser.
5. Pressure test your car's cooling system.
6. Check your thermostat, heater and defroster.
7. Install sufficient anti-freeze.

All cars, regardless of age or mileage, require these basic checks and preparations to assure summer starts in winter. We advise that you have your car totally winterized for reliable transportation all winter.

"Take the Bite Out of Winter."

Yul Brynner, he of the shiny dome, once said: "Whoever called women the weaker sex never saw them drive a car or buy a dress during a sale."

Brynner may have been out of his element expounding upon traffic safety, but his comment brings up a significant development in the perennial debate over the relative driving abilities of men and women.

Most auto insurance companies have begun charging women under the age of 25 more than the over-25 group for policies, or are contemplating this move. Men under 25 long have paid a surcharge for their insurance.

Here are some of the reasons: More women are working and driving in the same dense traffic that men are, more women than ever before are driving too fast for conditions, and women under 25 often allow men to drive their cars--men under 25 in many cases.

A look at the record (as lawyers like to say) indicates that women as drivers have been getting steadily worse. National Safety Council records show that the number of female drivers in fatal accidents rose from a rate of 29 per one billion miles driven in 1958, to 38 in 1964. On the other hand, the rate for male drivers remained the same --80.

Women, of course, will point out that according to these figures they still are twice as good as men at driving. But, anyone can see that such talk is irrelevant.

Despite the findings of impartial authorities, women still have the audacity to defend themselves.

Mrs. B.V. Todd, director of women's activities for the Automotive Safety Foundation, even went so far as to blame men for women's accidents.

"Men drivers are very annoying," she said. "They'll turn in front of you, never signal, nor sound a horn..."

Now listen here, Mrs. Todd, the other day a woman driver.....

The mighty midgets--classified advertisements--have been proved by centuries of testing.

A survey conducted by a Minnesota newspaper revealed that 84 percent of their readers read want ads once a week or more; 35 percent said they read the ads every day. Tests of readership on smaller dailies and weeklies indicate that 98 percent of the readers cover the want ad section.

The amazingly high readership of classified advertising is not its major benefit. People who read want ads usually are in the market for something specific.

Classified readers scan each ad selectively, and advertisers are consistently brought to the readers' attention. Many large firms insist on consistent classified advertising as well as large display ads in order to have full coverage of the market.

Classified is one of the oldest mediums of advertising known. In fact, some experts have traced it back to ancient Egypt. Since its appearance in early Egypt, it has been used to stimulate trade and serve individuals.

Use of classifieds has been notably successful in many instances. John Wanamaker, founder of one of the world's great stores, was a consistent user of classifieds.

Groucho Marx broke into show business by answering a classified ad. And the two great businessmen, Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck, were brought together because of a classified ad.

Classified advertising cannot be duplicated by other media. It gives complete advertising coverage to local merchants, as well as thousands of individuals who have anything to sell.

Edgar Blanton says: "One day we read that labor has struck for higher wages, which they always get. A few days later we read that folks are complaining about the cost of living going up, which was one of the reasons labor wanted higher wages. We may not be here at this time next year but if we are, we guess that the cost of living will have caught up with wages, and the wheel will continue to turn. Looks like there isn't anything in sight which will let us all live contentedly on what we get and on what we give."

The woman of today is very much like her sister who lived in this hemisphere centuries before Columbus discovered America. At least that's what physicians concluded who flocked to see a recent Chicago exhibit of pre-Columbian sculpture. The clay figures, some of them 4,000 years old, tell the vivid story of a people who flourished in Central and South America centures before the Aztecs, Incas or Mayans. According to Dr. Abner I. Weisman, owner of the fabulous colands of clay figures, women in many ways haven't changed much in 40 centuries. He said that the little pre-Columbian girl, as girls today, played with toys of all kinds and with dolls. And as she grew older she loved to wear jewelry and pretty clothes. Young women, then, as now, wanted to be attractive to the opposite sex. Many sculptures show women with beautiful elaborate hairdos, rouged faces and adorned with jewels.

STERN ACTION IS NEEDED

The war in Viet Nam has completely altered this nation's budget situation. We are committed to a major effort, which is being escalated, at an unpredictable cost. It will run far into the billions, and there is no end now in sight.

Reports from Washington say that orders have gone out to the federal agencies to cut costs in every possible way. But administrative cuts, desirable as they are, will not be enough. There must be a basic change in policy as well. That needed change can be expressed in a short sentence: It is essential that government do nothing, and pay for nothing, that can be provided by taxpaying private enterprise using private capital and savings.

This means, above all, that government should not engage in commercial business.

Numbers of examples could be cited. Electric power is among the best. It is a proven fact that the investor-owned industry is able and eager to meet any demand for power that exists now or will exist in the future. It will use the most advanced technology in doing this, providing the ultimate in service standards at the most modest feasible cost. It will make the most of all sources of electric energy -- coal, oil, falling water, the atom.

If the industry is permitted to do the job, the government will be spared the huge expenditures that are proposed for tax-exempt socialized power systems. On top of that, it will gain in the heavy taxes the investor-owned utilities will pay.

What is left of the dollar's value is at stake. Stern action must be taken -- and taken now.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The Liberty Lobby and the extremist views of its founder, Willis Carto, that Jews are at the root of the nation's troubles and that all Negroes should be deported to Africa, might be kissed off as unimportant were it not for two things.

First, the lobby managed to deluge the nation with 20 million pieces of political literature during the 1964 campaign, part of the "LBJ: A Political "Biography" smear sheet against the President.

Second, the lobby has managed to attract the support of various retired admirals and generals plus campaign funds from some businessmen. The latter include Joseph H. Pew of the Sun Oil Company, who contributed $1,000 to the lobby in 1963.

Finally, the lobby was able to entice four senators into appearing on the Liberty Lobby's radio series, "Congress Calling." They were Senators Mundt, R-S. C., McClellan, D-Ark., Dirksen, R-Ill., and Lausche, D-Ohio. The series appeared in 1962, but was short-lived. The senators eventually got wise to who was backing the program.

LIBERTY ROLL CALL

So that no other responsible senators get sucked into supporting this hate organization, we think it important that the public know just who are its regular sponsors. Its Chairman is Curtis Dall, former son-in-law of President Roosevelt, who has testified in the senate regarding what he claims is the zionist conspiracy.

The 1965 board of policy for the Liberty Lobby is heavily sprinkled with retired admirals and generals, as follows:

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, former commander of the air force in Korea, now living in Winter Park, Fla.

Lt. Gen. Sumter L. Lowry, N. G. U. S. Ret., of Tampa, Fla., who once ran for governor of Florida.

Vice Admiral C. S. Freeman, U. S. N. Ret., New York City.

Maj. Arch E. Roberts, U. S. A. R., Ret., of Fort Collins, Colo., author of Gen. Edwin Walker's Pro-Blue program, which figured in the army's investigation of the general.

Lt. Col. Frederick A. Kibbe, U. S. A. R. Ret., founder of the Florida Minutemen and a candidate for congress, now living in Fort Lauderdale.

Brig. Gen. Richard M. Moran, U. S. A. Ret., Kerrville, Tex., organizer of "Tell'em," which merged with the Liberty Lobby in 1963.

The board of policy also includes some staunch California backers of Ronald Reagan, such as Mrs. Gertrude Bale of Pasadena, former chairman of the network of Patriotic Letter Writers; Adm. Charles M. Cooke, of Sonoma, former commander of the 7th Fleet; Karl Prussion of San Diego, the famous red-baiter; Vernon G. Linderman of Bakersfield, and Mrs. R. R. Sischo of Merced, President of the Citizens Action Committee.

Others on the board of policy also are Joseph P. Kamp of Westport, Conn., founder of the Constitutional Educational League; Tyler Kent, who was imprisoned in the Tower of Longon during the war for having given information to the enemy while a member of the American Embassy Staff; Louis Zoul of New York City, Painter and Pamphleteer; R. G. Johnson of Rogers, Ark., author of "Patriots of Northern Arkansas."

LBJ AND KREMLIN

One of the chief campaigns of the Liberty Lobby recently has been to charge that President Johnson doesn't want to win the war in Viet Nam.

"Liberty Lowdown," described as "a confidential Washington report supply only to Liberty Lobby pledgers," recently charged that the United States was in "secret agreement" with the Kremlin.

"It must be interjected that there is not the slightest equivocation on that point," stated Liberty Lowdown. "Our government does not want to win; and it is this fact that makes futile and foolish all concepts that any conservatives might have about the right way to win the war. The fact which cannot be dismissed is that the real enemy of the American people is in Washington, D. C., nowhere else.

"Liberty Lobby has in its possession a report on the existence of a secret agreement between the Washington regime and the Kremlin which has never been ratified by the senate -- and which indeed is not even known to the vast majority of officials in Washington, but which explains perfectly the reason why we cannot win."

"Part of this deal is that the United States shall not allow Chiang Kai-Shek to leave his island, and that is why the regime refuses to use his troops in Viet Nam."

Note 1 -- This column can report that actually the United States has approached Chiang Kai-Shek for the use of Chinese nationalist troops in Viet Nam but was turned down. This was why President Johnson during his trip through the Far East studiously avoided stopping in Taipei to pay his respects to Chiang Kai-Shek.

Note 2-- When this column reported that the Senate testimony of Curtis Dall, chairman of the Liberty Lobby and former son-in-law of President Roosevelt, was anti-semitic, Dall sued us for $2 million but lost in the lower courts and all the way up to the Supreme Court.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

New Labor Force Unionizing West Point And Military, Naval, Air Bases Across World.

Washington, D. C.: -- A lot of the Pentagon brass have been "empire building" at bases across the U. S. and around the world.

This is done by replacing civilian employes with at least 117,000 young soldiers. The new troops have been manicuring golf courses, serving officers in private clubs, working as sales clerks at PX's, as well as maintaining automobile and military equipment.

Of the 117,000 men, at least 3,400 still are in the golf course contigent type of work. But as a result of an offensive by the fastest growing union in the land, the American Federation of Government Employes (AFGE) (AFL-CIO), Defense Secy. McNamara has been liquidating the generals' personal empires.

The 3,400 young men, many of them drafted into the armed forces, will be out of the personal service categories by New Year's eve, McNamara promised the union.

"This is great," said one critic of empire building, "because the bigger the contigent around the general's headquarters, the bigger his ego, the heavier his brass, and the tighter his cap and britches."

By next July 1, at least 74,000 other soldiers will have been taken out of civilian work around bases stretching from Washington to Okinawa. Another 40,000 will start going back into direct military operations beginning that day.

Naturally this has pleased the virtually unknown government employes' federation (AFGE) and its president, John F. Griner. McNamara's move will mean more civilian jobs -- but just as important to some of the union men is the fact that tens of thousands of young men have been needlessly drafted. The question which has been asked is: Why take the men out of their civilian lives merely to put them into uniform and thrust them back into civilian tasks as garage mechanics, office clerks and bowling alley pin boys?

Of course, Griner and his staff also are delighted with the chance to gain recruits amongst the new civilian workers. AFGE now is one of the country's most dynamic labor operations, albeit one of the least known.

It is growing at the rate of over 5,000 new members a month -- all the way from Puerto Rico to Japan.

One of its most dramatic successes is the windup of the long drive to unionize U. S. armed forces training academies. This will come within two weeks when AFGE officials, after consulting with their West Point local, sit down with the U. S. Military Academy's superintendent and negotiate a brand new contract.

The union still is driving to sign up the final 500 civilian workers there -- ranging from kitchen help to office staffs, fiscal people, controllers and transportation workers. In all there are 1,716 in this unit. In a second group there are some 300 supervisors such as shop foremen -- in fact everything below the top echelon of managerial executives.

Once this contract is signed, the union will have mopped up all the academies -- Annapolis; the Air Force installation at Colorado Springs, Colo.; the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.; and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point (L.I., N.Y.).

One of the AFGE's recent coups is signing the first cabinet-level nationwide exclusive agreement with the government itself -- namely, the Department of Labor.

With some 230,000 members now on the books, the AFGE is hitting out for another 270,000 members in the next year and finally for a top target of one million. Behind AFGE now is Walter Reuther's AFL-CIO Industrial Union Dept. (IUD) and its organizing genius, Jack Conway. It was the IUD which supplied the first $5,000 -- and five special organizers -- just to equip and man the New York-New Jersey regional office which successfully signed up West Point.

And so with the Pentagon and West Point under its belt, the AFGE caissons go rolling along in the drive to unionize the entire U.S. government wherever it reaches across the world.

SURE, every time we do anything that makes military sense we'll get a blizzard of dead cats for "escalating" the war. The Russians and their puppets would like to see us bleed as long as possible. The newly independent African and Asian nations, with colonialism a fresh memory, look with suspicion on any largely white army shooting at people with colored skins.

There's the cheer-for-the-underdog complex that sees the brave little Vietcong David standing against the huge American Goliath. There are sincere Americans who feel that this is the wrong war in the wrong place at the wrong time. The British, having lost their empire, are now more isolationist than the late Colonel McCormick. General De Gaulle sounds like a man who can't stand the thought of the Americans winning where the French lost.

In addition, we've got our own hard core fellow-travelers, entrenched in colleges, church organizations, and the press, who are trying to sound like millions. Not since the Tories of Revolutionary days in America contained such an open Fifth Column, we never had parades of people offering to send blood to Sitting Bull, the Kaiser or Adolf Hitler.

And, finally, there are the Nervous Nellies who fear we'll stir up Mao. Mao is riding the biggest paper tiger in modern history, a nation with a runaway population, marginal food, and now rendered chaotic by youth gangs. If Mao had the stuff he'd hit us regardless of any appeasement. Give him credit. He had said so.

We are at war. If we are going to fight it gently in order to please Oxford societies and witch doctors in striped pants let's pull out, for American lads are dying magnificently, but dying just the same. And if we're going to stay in, let's win it.

Hell, yes, the Vietcong are using Cambodia. And, instead of shushing "Swede" Larsen, the State Department ought to send a note to Phnom Penh that drops the "Your Excellency" and says, simply, "Look, Buster. If you can't get'em out, we will."

PTA Committee Meets Tuesday

Eleven members of the executive committee of the Matthews elementary Parent - Teacher association had the regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Vincent Wissman Tuesday evening.

Principal Allen Mays said that school pictures will be made Wednesday. He said also that the quarter will end Monday and that reported cards will go home Nov. 9.

The program for the November meeting was discussed and tentative plans were to show a film on modern math and have a question - answer session following the film.

Mrs. Dewey Gimlin, project chairman, said that the school record books have not been received but should be here in time for the next regular P. T. A. meeting. Other projects under consideration are the sale of school sweatshirts and pecans for the holiday season.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Franklin Struwe Speaks to Lincoln P-TA

The Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association held its meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln school gymnasium.

After the buiness meeting, the president introduced Franklin Struwe, vice chairman of the library board. He explained advantages of using the library and told of material available for all age groups.

The theme of the program was the United Nations, highlighting the work of UNICEF. A playlet about UNICEF written by Mrs. Mary Trout and given by members of the fifth and sixth grades told of UNICEF'S work and encouraged parents to participate. It was repeated Thursday morning for the student body and parents who worked at night.

Room count was taken and Mrs. Taylor's second grade won the trophy by having the most parents present. Mrs. Sprowls won second place.

Rev. Wagner Returns From Bahama Islands

The Rev. Joseph H. Wagner, pastor of First Methodist church, returned this week from a ten days' mission to the Bahamas. The Rev. Mr. Wagner was one of 24 ministers selected from various cities in this country to conduct an intensive teaching and preaching mission to Nassau in the Bahamas. Trinity Methodist church was the assigned church for Wagner although the teaching and visitation program extended to all of the islands.

The ministers arrived in Nassau Oct. 14 and while 12 remained at Nassau, 12 left for the Out Islands. Teams of two visited Abaco, Andros, Eleuthera, Inagua, Grand Bahamas and Spanish Wells and Harbour Island.

Miss Martha Seabaugh

Footlight Footnotes

By Hope Terrell

Little Theatre's star for today, may be last, but certainly not least!! Even when Martha Seabaugh is away, she is still a part of Sikeston Little Theatre. She started here!! From high school on -- she loved drama. She has had major or lead roles in Sikeston Little Theatre's, "George Washington Slept Here"; "Diary of Anne Frank"; "The Tender Trap"; "J. B." and helped immeasurably behind the scenes.

Martha graduated from Sikeston high school in 1957 and after graduation was employed at Bank of Sikeston. She is now employed at D. A. Fischer Insurance Agency in Memphis; but when the "5 o'clock whistle" blows, she's stage door bound! Presently she is appearing in Memphis Little Theatre's, "Anything Goes". This is the nineteenth play she has been connected with in Memphis Little Theatre and has helped with several productions for Memphis State Repertory Theatre.

Martha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Seabaugh of Sikeston. We are extremely pleased with Martha's progress and we know she is bound for bigger things.

Every actors' reward is a good performance and an appreciative audience. This is especially true for an amateur, volunteer group. Sikeston Little Theatre always tries to put YOU first and give you its best.

I hope you have enjoyed reading this series; and perhaps been interested in the accomplishments of these six Sikeston samples I chose.

Yours for an outstanding season!!! Sikeston Little Theatre.

LADY IN WAITING

She peers through the curtains,
She powders her nose.
She looks in the mirror --
She stands on her toes!
She knows he's forgotten...
She'll never forgive!
Never...no...Never...
As long as they live!
But soon out of traffic
His car will appear,
And she'll shout from the doorway:

SUMMER SYMMETRY

In June I planned ten thousand things to do -
"Twas summer and school was through;
In July, the month of June already gone
Still planning all I'd do from night to dawn,
Then August fled - still finding things undone,
I laughed and said, well, plannings' half the fun!

To get a good job, get a good education

Jobs demand it. Employers insist on it. So you'd better plan on having what it really takes to get the kind of job you want.

Today, there's no fooling about schooling. You honestly need a good education to get a good job . . . a good paying job . . . a job with a good future.

So, if you're in school now . . . stay there! Learn all you can for as long as you can. If you're out of school, there are plenty of ways to get valuable training outside the classroom. SUMMER SYMMETRY

In June I planned ten thousand things to do -
"Twas summer and school was through;
In July, the month of June already gone
Still planning all I'd do from night to dawn,
Then August fled - still finding things undone,
I laughed and said, well, plannings' half the fun!

SHS Spoils Jackson Indians Homecoming

Snelling Returns KO 84 Yards

By Ron Jaynes

JACKSON - They saw their job and they did it. This is the best way to describe the outstanding job done by the Sikeston Bulldogs Friday night.

The Sikeston squad returned the trick played on them last year when Jackson put a sour note on Sikeston's homecoming. The Dogs did the same this year, shutting out the Indians, 27-0. They went out and did it and collected second place in the northern conference standings with only one game remaining.

Picking up momentum as the game progressed, the Bulldogs rode the running of Dennis Snelling, Danny Lopp, and Wayne Limbaugh to their overwhelming victory. Snelling picked up 203 yards on rushing, punt and pass returns.

Overall it was a great team victory with many outstanding individuals.

Limbaugh took over the district scoring lead with two TD's.

Had the game progressed the way it started the Bulldogs would have found themselves on the wrong end of the score. The Indians took the opening kickoff on their 18-yard line and Bill Lewis brought it out to the 28 from where Mike Lincoln carried for 18 yards to the 46 for a first down and Lewis followed with a 33-yard run for another first down on the Sikeston 21 yard line. The Sikeston defense was stunned but held the Indians on the 21 where they ran out of downs.

It was an exuberant Sikeston team after it clinched the second place spot in the northern conference and ran its record to 6-1-1 for the season.

The first quarter Sikeston was sluggish and restless but it perked up after a scoreless first quarter.

The second quarter the Bulldogs defense tightened and did not allow the Indians to advance past their 35-yard line until the final quarter from where the Jackson squad ran out of line on the Dogs three-yard line.

The game was not all defense. The offensive unit had its moments of glory too. It was slightly overshadowed by the defense. Had it not been for the defense the Bulldogs would have found themselves behind as the Indians opened up the game staging a 53-yard drive that halted on the Dogs' 22.

The Sikeston defense took over the game after the opening minutes of the first quarter and all the offense had to do was score.

Jackson won the toss and elected to receive.

Sikeston started a drive just before the first period ended after the Indians were forced to punt and the Dogs took over on Jackson's 46-yard line. There Limbaugh carried for three yards and Roger Blackman hauled in a Limbaugh pass for 47 yards on the Indians' six-yard line. Limbaugh was thrown for a two-yard loss as the whistle went off.

On the first play of the second quarter Limbaugh tucked the ball under his right arm and went off right end for ten yards and six points. Danny Lopp's try for the extra point was off to the left. Sikeston led 6-0.

Jackson took the kickoff on the 16-yard line and carried to 24 from where the Indians managed to reach the Sikeston 40-yard line on a pair of runs by Bill Lewis, one went for 29 yards and the other for 16.

Jackson punted to Sikeston's five-yard line and Danny Lopp on the first down advanced one yard. With second and nine Limbaugh went to the right sideline and advanced the ball 45 yards to the Indians 49 before he was run out of bounds. Two plays later Terry Scudder carried 21 yards over left tackle for 21 yards and a score. Lopp extra point attempt was good and the Dogs led 13-0 midway in the second period.

After the Bulldogs kickoff the Indians offense failed to gain but three yards and was forced to punt. Lopp hauled in the punt on the 30-yard line and carried to the 40. There Limbaugh shot down-field for a 40-yard touchdown with Lopp's extra point good and the Dogs led 20-0 at the intermission.

A large group of Sikeston Bulldog supporters were on hand to see the Dogs in action as well as take in the high school's marching band performance at half-time.

The Bulldogs final score came in the third quarter on the opening kickoff. Dennis Snelling unwound and went 84 yards for a TD with 12 seconds gone in the quarter. Lopp added the extra point for the Bulldogs' final score.

Substitutes began to flow in freely on the Sikeston side just before the half opened. They played most of the second half.

Dexter 13-0 Winner

DEXTER -- The host Bearcats dumped the visiting Chaffee Red Devils last night, 13-0. Both squads without the services of a few key players fought through a scoreless first quarter.

Dexter put six points on the board midway in the second period on a 11-yard run by Gary Gregg.

The Bearcats held their slim head at the half.

Another repeat of the first quarter came in the third period when both teams failed to cross the goal line.

Late in the fourth period, Eddie Lee, intercepted a Chaffee pass and raced 55 yards for a touchdown and Ron Atherton added the extra point.

Jays Fight But Lose

CHARLESTON -- The area's top high school football team had its hands full at the hands of underrated Charleston Blue-Jays last night. The Poplar Bluff Mules had to put together a strong second half surge to overcome a 7-7 tie and win 33-13.

The Jays' defense was superb the first half, allowing only one touchdown by the Mules that coming in the first quarter on Eddie Moss' 82-yard run and Ben Wyatt's extra point.

Charleston's first score came late in the second period on Joe Jones' one yard plunge. Pod Ashley set up the score when he picked up a Mule fumble and ran 49 yards. Charles Babb's extra point tied the game and the score held during the half.

Charleston kicked off to start the third period and Bluff drove downfield with John Brown carrying the pigskin over from the two - yard line. In the same third period, Larry Vaughn returned a punt 43 yards for six points with Wyatt converting.

As the fourth period opened the Mules began to pull away from the surprising BlueJays as Brown scored his second touchdown, this time on a one-yard dive. Wyatt converted.

With 15 seconds left in the game, Gary Betts hauled in a Dave Williams pass and lateraled to Robert Rogers, who went 14 yards for the Jays final score.

The Mules final score came on a 99-yard kickoff return by Poplar Bluff's Leroy Moss.

Warriors Edge Past Bullets

San Francisco's offense-minded Warriors came up with some just-in-time defense Friday in beating Baltimore 105-104.

Late in the game, Nate Thurmond, the Warrior center who had 19 points and 25 rebounds, blocked a shot by Gus Johnson that would have tied the game and, with 39 seconds left, Jeff Mullins tied up Baltimore's Don Ohl.

With these key plays stopping the Bullets, Jim King connected on a 10-foot jump shot with 26 seconds left for the San Francisco victory.

Johnson led all the scorers, with 33 points, and Rick Barry and Fred Hetzel led the Warriors, with 28 and 26 respectively.

Eddie Miles led Detroit to a 129-117 victory over Chicago. Miles threw in 35 points and put the Pistons ahead with 8:50 left in the third period, and they were never headed. Bob Boozer led the Bulls with 31 points.

Leading only 58-54 at halftime, the Los Angeles Lakers broke loose after intermission to beat the New York Knickerbockers 123-114.

However, the Lakers, who have been playing without star guard Jerry West, suffered a blow near the end of the first half when Elgin Baylor fell and suffered a strained ligament inside his right knee. He will be out indefinitely.

Walt Hazzard and Rudy LaRusso led the Lakers, with 24 points each. Walt Bellamy got 28 and Willis Reed added 26 for the Knicks. Baylor scored 19 before being injured.

Baying Of Hunting Hounds May Someday Be Replaced

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The baying of hunting hounds may someday be replaced by a less melodious cry — and to the careful listener it may sound like "oink, oink."

This is a claim of F. C. (Bud) Clardy.

It took Clardy, who operates a bookkeeping service, five years and more than $500 to win his bet that pigs can and do point like bird dogs.

"A hog pointing for quail is something to behold," he told two friends five years ago. They laughed and the bet was on.

Seeking to prove his point, Clardy began writing letters to bird magazines, dog magazines and even hog magazines.

Then, he says, he received a letter one day from a reader of a book, "Pigs from the Cave to the Cornfield." The authors said they had a hog which would point at any kind of game except rabbits, Clardy said.

Clardy says more proof came from Jack Hough, an Indiana farmer who wrote saying he had a hog named Berney that stalks birds — and fills in as a saddle horse.

When confronted with this proof, Clardy said his friends, Fort Lauderdale printers Jack Hughes and Paul West, admitted they had lost the wager.

As a result, motorists driving between Miami and Fort Lauderdale Sunday can see Hughes and West trudging along the roadside.

Behind them in a cart will be a 60-pound porker. Around its neck will be a sign saying: "Yes, pigs can point."

Late in the game, Nate Thurmond, the Warrior center who had 19 points and 25 rebounds, blocked a shot by Gus Johnson that would have tied the game and, with 39 seconds left, Jeff Mullins tied up Baltimore's Don Ohl.

With these key plays stopping the Bullets, Jim King connected on a 10-foot jump shot with 26 seconds left for the San Francisco victory.

Johnson led all the scorers, with 33 points, and Rick Barry and Fred Hetzel led the Warriors, with 28 and 26 respectively.

Eddie Miles led Detroit to a 129-117 victory over Chicago. Miles threw in 35 points and put the Pistons ahead with 8:50 left in the third period, and they were never headed. Bob Boozer led the Bulls with 31 points.

Leading only 58-54 at halftime, the Los Angeles Lakers broke loose after intermission to beat the New York Knickerbockers 123-114.

However, the Lakers, who have been playing without star guard Jerry West, suffered a blow near the end of the first half when Elgin Baylor fell and suffered a strained ligament inside his right knee. He will be out indefinitely.

Walt Hazzard and Rudy LaRusso led the Lakers, with 24 points each. Walt Bellamy got 28 and Willis Reed added 26 for the Knicks. Baylor scored 19 before being injured.

Baying Of Hunting Hounds May Someday Be Replaced

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The baying of hunting hounds may someday be replaced by a less melodious cry — and to the careful listener it may sound like "oink, oink."

This is a claim of F. C. (Bud) Clardy.

It took Clardy, who operates a bookkeeping service, five years and more than $500 to win his bet that pigs can and do point like bird dogs.

"A hog pointing for quail is something to behold," he told two friends five years ago. They laughed and the bet was on.

Seeking to prove his point, Clardy began writing letters to bird magazines, dog magazines and even hog magazines.

Then, he says, he received a letter one day from a reader of a book, "Pigs from the Cave to the Cornfield." The authors said they had a hog which would point at any kind of game except rabbits, Clardy said.

Clardy says more proof came from Jack Hough, an Indiana farmer who wrote saying he had a hog named Berney that stalks birds — and fills in as a saddle horse.

When confronted with this proof, Clardy said his friends, Fort Lauderdale printers Jack Hughes and Paul West, admitted they had lost the wager.

As a result, motorists driving between Miami and Fort Lauderdale Sunday can see Hughes and West trudging along the roadside.

Behind them in a cart will be a 60-pound porker. Around its neck will be a sign saying: "Yes, pigs can point."

HAVING BEEN PRESENT at the University of Missouri school of medicine's first graduation ceremony in 1957, Dr. M. D. Overholser, former chairman of the department of anatomy, has witnessed the rapid growth of the University Medical Center in its first decade.

More tan 80,000 Patients Treated

COLUMBIA -- Teamwork is a key factor in patient care at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia, which last year treated more than 80,000 patients from every part of Missouri.

According to Dr. Vernon E. Wilson, Dean of the University's School of Medicine and Director of the Medical Center, the team approach, which combines the efforts of various specialists, saves time and trips for patients.

Requests for care have risen rapidly, he noted, and expansion of the Center's clinical areas rate top priority in terms of future needs.

Patients are referred to the University Medical Center by family physicians for diagnostic studies or treatment when local facilities are not available, Dean Wilson said. In addition, patients are admitted when the study of their particular problems may be valuable to medical education.

The University Medical Center, which celebrates its Tenth Anniversary Nov. 6-11, has provided clinical and hospital services far beyond initial hopes and planning, Dean Wilson said. It also operates a number of special programs augmenting health care for the people of Missouri.

The Multiple Handicap Clinic, for example, focuses attention on children with complex health problems. One of the most recent programs is the Birth Defects Treatment Center, supported by the National Foundation, which assists in diagnosis and in the coordination of acute and long - term care for patients of this type.

A clinic for diabetic children, held regularly at the Medical Center, is among the largest conducted in the nation, Dean Wilson sad. One of the objectives of research associated with the clinic is to identify the pre - clinical state of diabetes in children so that control measures can be initiated to prevent the disease itself.

Dean Wilson pointed out the Medical Center operates a computer - based system for the coordination of patient data as part of its continuous efforts to provide the best possible treatment and care. This system serves as a direct aid to physicians by providing faster reporting, recording, and retrieval of information gathered in the Center's various laboratories.

Medical Center statistics for 1965-66, he added, illustrate the magnitude of the Center's services: 4,230 operations were performed; 48,916 X-ray examinations and treatments were given; 468,378 laboratory procedures were conducted; and 303,504 meals were served.

Woman Weds Aged Tycoon Ahead of Kidnap Arrest

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (AP) — A hearing on a kidnaping charge — and possibly other troubles — today faced Pearl Choate, 59, the blonde bride who married her 95-year-old spouse Wednesday, a step ahead of police.

The kidnaping charge against the woman, who served 12 years of a murder conviction between 1949 and 1963, were filed Tuesday when she disappeared with A. Otis Birch, an elderly multimillionaire California philanthropist.

After the pair left the home of her brother in this West Texas oil town Tuesday, the kidnap charges were filed. Earlier that day she had been charged with simple assault following a butcher knife attack on Harlan J. Moehn, a cousin of Mrs. Birch. Mrs. Birch died here Oct. 7.

After posting bond on the assault charge, Pearl and Otis drove to Duncan, Okla., where she said they spent Tuesday night. Then, Wednesday morning, she went on, they went to Altus, Okla., and were married.

Birch, who made what Pearl said was about $200 million in oil and citrus, became the woman's seventh husband.

The two returned to Breckenridge with a marriage license and she promptly posted $5,000 bond on the kidnap charge, on which a hearing was set for today.

Newsmen interviewed both Birch and his bride after their return from the Oklahoma marriage.

Birch said he married Miss Choate "to take care of my future wife to be." He said he knew of Miss Choate's murder sentence.

Miss Choate told newsmen she didn't need to marry Otis for his money. It was all in my name seven months ago."

Miss Choate received a 22-year sentence for murder in the 1949 slaying of Alfred M. Allison in Amarillo. Police said she shot the man in an argument over carpentry work he had done.

Later, she was paroled but sent back to prison after being charged with felony theft in Houston. She was released in 1963.

Birch is reputed to have given millions to Baptist colleges and churches. He lives off annutites that amount to about $50,000 yearly, friends said.

New Madrid Incomes Up

NEW MADRID - Many New Madrid county families are finding themselves in higher income brackets than ever before, thanks to the improvement in their earnings during the last few years.

Some of them, who had never been above the $4,000 to $7,000 bracket, have climbed a rung to the choice $7,000 to $10,000 level. Others, who had been in the lower brackets for a long time, have been able to move up to the next higher position.

That has been the pattern all along the line. As a result, there are more families in the middle and upper income ranges and fewer in the lower groups than previously.

For most local residents, it has meant an increase in purchasing power because their earnings have advanced at a faster clip than the cost of living.

The changes are detailed in a copyrighted report issued by Sales Management. It shows, for every area of the country, the portion of the population that falls within each of the income divisions.

In New Madrid County, according to the breakdown, some 28.7 per cent of the households had net cash incomes of $4,000 or more in the past year. This was after payment of their federal and state taxes.

It was a high proportion. It compares with 20.9 per cent in 1962, when a study of the same kind was made.

It was a rate of gain of 37.3 per cent. Elsewhere in the United States the gain was 10.0 per cent and, in the State of Missouri, 11.7 per cent.

Farm communities do not show up to their best advantage in the figures, it is noted, because the study takes into account only cash income. It makes no allowance for the lower living costs on the farm.

Just how the New Madrid County population is divided, in term of income brackets, is indicated in the report.

It shows that there are 5.5 per cent of the households in the $7,000 to $10,000 category, 17.7 per cent in the $4,000 to $7,000 range and 22.6 per cent with incomes of $2,500 to $4,000. The remainder are above $10,000 or under $2,500.

Nationally, points out the Commerce Department, the median income of families rose five per cent in the past year. Since consumer prices also rose in the period, the net gain in purchasing power was less than that. It amounted to about three per cent.

Bob Robins Heads Kiwanis

DEXTER -- Bob Robins, of the Missouri Utilities company's staff, was elected president of the Kiwanis club Tuesday.

Robins will succeed Howard Dickirson in January. Willis Conner was named first vice-President; Dwight Russnogle, second vice president; and L. E. Robins announced that he had appointed the Rev. Robert McCoy secretary. Named directors were Winfield Richmond, Bill Perkins, Dewey Sigler, Clarence Powell, Ikie Watkins and Rose Cirrincoine.

Halloween Parade In Canalon Monday

CANALOU -- There will be a Halloween parade Monday night starting at 6:15 p.m. in front of Hammocks grocery. The group will go to the gym for judging of costumes.

Prizes will be given for the most original, most appropriate, prettiest and the most scary costumes.

After the judging, Miss UNICEF and Little Miss UNICEF will be crowned. This will be the fourth year for the queen contest. Barbara Kay Barnes and Teresa Bixler, last year's queens will crown the new ones.

The parade of candidates will begin at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Fred Lasters will be in charge. Each grade one through six will have a candidate chosen by fellow students. Pre-schoolers, three through six, can enter for the title of Little Miss UNICEF by calling NO 7-5574 by Friday.

Each candidate will have a jar for votes in a specified place and each penny counts as one vote. All money collected goes to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

In the past, the children have gone from door to door to collect for UNICEF but now contributions will be only through the queen contest.

All money jars will be collected by the teacher of each candidate by 6 p.m. Monday. The jar will be kept by the teacher until turned over to the judges.

Candidates are first grade, Debbie Drake, Junior Russom, escort; second grade, Kim Vandiver, Greg Duncan, escort; third grade, Donna Taylor, Jimmy Edsall, escort; fourth grade, Debbie Landers, Steve Breedlover, escort; fifth grade, Bertha Robinson, Milton Speed, escort; sixth grade, Tereasa Leraue, Mike Ashby, escort.

Candidates for Little Miss UNICEF are Kristina Myers, Rocky Lasters, escort and Brenda Starky, Dennis Nickols, escort.

Registrants in Selective Service Must Report

BENTON -- The obligation of the selective service registrant is to keep his board informed of his mailing address. A change of address should be reported at once, Clerk Lena B. Brogan said.

Changes in status, such as marital, births of children, student occupation, physical condition must be reported to the board immediately in writing.

All information given selective service is confidential. Information in a registrant's file cannot be released to anyone other than the registrant himself without his written authorization.

"If you are away from your local board and you are in doubt as to your obligation to selective service, go to the nearest board and request assistance," the clerk urged.

Halloween Parade In Canalon Monday

CANALOU -- There will be a Halloween parade Monday night starting at 6:15 p.m. in front of Hammocks grocery. The group will go to the gym for judging of costumes.

Prizes will be given for the most original, most appropriate, prettiest and the most scary costumes.

After the judging, Miss UNICEF and Little Miss UNICEF will be crowned. This will be the fourth year for the queen contest. Barbara Kay Barnes and Teresa Bixler, last year's queens will crown the new ones.

The parade of candidates will begin at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Fred Lasters will be in charge. Each grade one through six will have a candidate chosen by fellow students. Pre-schoolers, three through six, can enter for the title of Little Miss UNICEF by calling NO 7-5574 by Friday.

Each candidate will have a jar for votes in a specified place and each penny counts as one vote. All money collected goes to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

In the past, the children have gone from door to door to collect for UNICEF but now contributions will be only through the queen contest.

All money jars will be collected by the teacher of each candidate by 6 p.m. Monday. The jar will be kept by the teacher until turned over to the judges.

Candidates are first grade, Debbie Drake, Junior Russom, escort; second grade, Kim Vandiver, Greg Duncan, escort; third grade, Donna Taylor, Jimmy Edsall, escort; fourth grade, Debbie Landers, Steve Breedlover, escort; fifth grade, Bertha Robinson, Milton Speed, escort; sixth grade, Teresa Leraue, Mike Ashby, escort.

Candidates for Little Miss UNICEF are Kristina Myers, Rocky Lasters, escort and Brenda Starky, Dennis Nickols, escort.

by Miss Mary Ann Finch,
Extension Home Economist

The University Extension Centers of Scott, Mississippi, Stoddard and New Madrid counties are sponsoring a short course for interested women of our area on "Self Improvement."

The short course ia series of five meetings held each Tuesday night beginnin November 8 and running through December 6. All the meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Sikeston Senior High School in Sikeston.

The instructor for this very informative and entertaining session will be Mrs. Jannene Crawford, a former faculty member in the Personal Appearance Department at Stephens College in Columbia. She taught classes in Personal Appearance and Modeling and was an instructor for a personal improvement program for Trans-World Airlines Stewardesses. Mrs. Crawford is presently completing work on a degree from the Univ. of Missouri at Columbia.

Some of the topics Mrs. Crawford will be discussing are:

November 8 - General Grooming. Social significance of personal appearance, importance of making the most of good qualities and beginning projects on a program of self-improvement.

November 15 - Visual Poise. Graceful methods of standing, walking, sitting, ascending and descending stairs. Each person will receive individual attention on walking posture.

November 22 - Clothing Selection. Wardrobe planning, clothes lines for figure flattery, use of color in costumes to compliment skin and hair coloring and enhancing figure proportion and selection of accessories.

November 29 - Skin Care and Costmetic Selection. Steps in the care of specific skin types and selection of cosmetics to enhance facial features.

December 6 - Costmetic Selection and Application. Selection and application of cosmetic items and individual cosmetic and skin care questions will be answered.

If you are interested in obtaining more information about this short course or if you are interested in registering for the course, please contact your University Extension Center. The cost for the 5 week session will be $17. Please send in your reservations by November 1.

This course would be of special interest to business women, secretaries, girls interested in modeling, homemakers, or anyone interested in learning more about personal appearance.

Seed Quality Slightly lower

MEMPHIS: Quality of seed received at oil mills during the week ended Oct. 26, averaged slightly lower than a week earlier in all states except Arkansas which was about unchanged. Volume of seed received at crushing establishments was about one-fourth less than a week earlier, according to the cotton division, consumer and marketing service, USDA. Prices paid farmers for seed during the week ended Oct. 26 were slightly higher than a week earlier in Tennessee, Missouri and Mississippi.

Cottonseed grades on certificates by districts for the week ended Oct. 26 was varied from 100.5 to 105.0 in Arkansas, 93.0 to 100.5 in Louisiana, 98.5 to 103.0 in Mississippi and 99.5 to 102.0 in Tennessee. Missouri county averages ranged from 97.0 to 104.0. Percentage of moisture in seed varied mostly from 11 to 14. Oil content of seed was generally 17 to 19 percent. Percentage of ammonia in seed crushed varied from 3.5 to 4.2.

Farmers sold cottonseed mostly for $60 to $70 per ton in Arkansas, $60 to $75 per ton in Louisiana, $65 to $75 per ton in Mississippi, $60 to $66 per ton in Missouri and $60 to $70 per ton in Tennessee. Oil mill price for basis grade (100) cottonseed in truck lots, f.o.b., gin yards, was steady at $75 per ton. Cottonseed meal with 41 per cent protein sold, sacked, over the scales, at $81 to $85 per ton except in Louisiana where prices were $88 to $99 per ton. Bulk cottonseed hulls sold from $17 to $20 per ton. Crude cottonseed oil, basis Mississippi Valley points, sold at 12-7/8 cents per pound October 26. Bleachable cottonseed oil for December delivery closed on the New York Stock Exchange at 14.70 cents per pound on Wednesday.

Cottonseed receipts at oil mills in the United States have been restricted this season due to the lateness of the cotton harvest. September receipts at 290,000 tons were up seasonally from August but substantially lower than receipts of 902,000 tons in September a year ago. Total receipts at oil mills during the first two months this season were 439,000 tons compared with 1,187,000 tons in the same two month period last year. Cottonseed crushings in August and September totaled 357,000 tons against 563,000 tons a year earlier. Oil mill stocks of cottonseed were 286,000 tons at the end of September this season compared with 781,000 tons on the same date a year ago.

Timely Tips

BLOOMFIELD: It's the season for jackets and coats. These add bulk to the feminine figure, but the illusion of slimness can be obtained even by persons with heavier figures.

Single-breasted jackets are better for this type than double-breasted which add another fold of material and more bulk across the center of the figure already bulky.

Nor are all coats attractive on larger women. Consider how a coat looks from the back when trying it on in the store. It's usually from the back that a coat looks worst, if it is a poor choice for a figure with large hips.

Most coats are either straight up and down or A-line shape with fullness at the side. Often this side flare seems to enlarge the width of the hips.

A tight fitting coat around the hipline only accentuates the width there and causes wrinkles at the waist line. A better choice is a coat which hangs from loose fullness at the neck and shoulders and is loose enough around the hips so that they are completely hidden.

Fabick's Angus Steers Winners

GRANOIN -- Francis J. Fabick, secretary of the John Fabick Tractor Company, St. Louis, and owner of the 2,300-acre Little Women ranch, added another blue ribbon to his collection at the American Royal livestock show in Kansas City.

For the second year in a row, his herd of choice Aberdeen Angus steers won first prize in the Carload Commercial Aberdeen Angus stocker calves division.

The 49-head herd weighed in at 455 pounds per animal. They were judged by the association to be first out of 65 Angus herds competing in the commercial stocker and feeder division.

Joint Obligation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University have an obligation to help ease a housing shortage here caused by expansion of the two schools, says the president of MIT, Howard W. Johnson.

Johnson said officials of the two schools would sit down soon with city representatives to map plans for a coordinated housing program. Top priority, he said, is low- and moderate-income housing.

on the fence row

By Thomas A. Brown, Jr.

BLOOMFIELD - There has been quite a bit of speculation among farmers and others in this area during the recent months as to what would happen as far as soybean prices are concerned. Just recently, we received a soybean outlook report from our agricultural economists at the University of Missouri. The purpose of this article is to give you a brief summary of their predictions concerning soybeans.

As you probably know, we began a new marketing year as far as soybeans are concerned on September 1. The total supply of soybeans for the coming year is estimated at around 950 million bushels. This supply includes an estimated carryover of 30 million bushels on September 1 and an estimated production from the current crop of 926 million bushels. This is the first year on record when the total supply has passed the 900 million bushel mark. In fact, 1965 was the only previous year when supplies exceeded 800 million bushels.

The demand for soybeans during this marketing year will exceed that of any previous year. The crush here in this county is expected to amount to around 570 million bushels compared to 535 million bushels crushed last year which was the record crush up to that point.

Prices paid to farmers for soybeans during this harvest season are expected to average well above the support price of $2.50 per bushel. As you know, soybean prices have ranged in general from $2.75 to $2.85 per bushel recently. During the 1965 harvest season, soybean prices in Missouri averaged $2.38 per bushel from September to December, but rose sharply over the remainder of the marketing year. In fact, prices ranged from a low of $2.31 per bushel in November to a peak of $3.37 per bushel in July of this year. Unfortunately, for farmers in general, two-thirds of the soybean crop had moved into trade channels by January 1; consequently, most farmers did not benefit directly by this sharp price increase. Price movements during this marketing year are expected to be quite different. This year's prices are starting out considerably higher than a year ago, but will probably not show as much seasonal increase as they did during the past marketing year. Historically, farmers hold a larger percentage of their soybeans on the farm during years following sharp increases in prices. Consequently, a larger-than-average amount of the soybeans can be expected to stay of farms during this marketing year.

Because of the limited availability of soybeans and high soybean prices, bean exports are expected to decline during the coming year. The rate of export movement will depend largely on the price level after the fall harvest and the availability of competing oil crops from other countries.

In summary, the 1966-67 marketing year for soybeans which began on September 1 appears to be another year in which the supply of and demand for beans will be in close balance. If the 1966 soybean crop materializes as reported on September 1, bean supplies will be tight for the third consecutive year, and a minimum carryover of beans is anticipated for September 1, 1967.

Beale Street Slated for Facelifting

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- They closed up Beale Street 50 years ago and now they're going to clean it up, as befits a national history landmark.

Friday, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and the widow of Beale Street's most illustrous son, William Christopher Handy, were on hand for the ceremonies that declared, nine squalid blocks in the heart of Memphis to be, officially, a part of Americana.

For Mrs. Handy, the street holds few memories. She was the second wife of the blues composer, and married him long after he had abandoned Memphis for New York.

She welcomes the $20-million facelifting job scheduled for Beale Street as part of an urban renewal program still in its planning stages.

"It'll be a nice sight to see when it's done all over," said Mrs. Handy, now 64, in an interview at her home in Yonkers, N.Y.

Handy Park, and its towering bronze statue of the musician-composer, will remain untouched by urban renewal. Precious little else will survive the bulldozers which clear the way for a combination residential-commercial neighborhood.

While the planners hope to preserve as much of Beale Street's flavor as possible, only about 70 buildings on the short, narrow street that runs from the Mississippi River to Manassas Street are considered to be structurally sound. It is the worst slum in the city, a row of tightly packed, dreary tenements, pawn shops, pool halls, grimy cafes and cut-rate stores.

Oil mill price for basis grade (100) cottonseed in truck lots, f.o.b., gin yards, was steady at $75 per ton. Cottonseed meal with 41 per cent protein sold, sacked, over the scales, at $81 to $85 per ton except in Louisiana where prices were $88 to $99 per ton. Bulk cottonseed hulls sold from $17 to $20 per ton. Crude cottonseed oil, basis Mississippi Valley points, sold at 12-7/8 cents per pound October 26. Bleachable cottonseed oil for December delivery closed on the New York Stock Exchange at 14.70 cents per pound on Wednesday.

Cottonseed receipts at oil mills in the United States have been restricted this season due to the lateness of the cotton harvest. September receipts at 290,000 tons were up seasonally from August but substantially lower than receipts of 902,000 tons in September a year ago. Total receipts at oil mills during the first two months this season were 439,000 tons compared with 1,187,000 tons in the same two month period last year. Cottonseed crushings in August and September totaled 357,000 tons against 563,000 tons a year earlier. Oil mill stocks of cottonseed were 286,000 tons at the end of September this season compared with 781,000 tons on the same date a year ago.

BLOOMFIELD: It's the season for jackets and coats. These add bulk to the feminine figure, but the illusion of slimness can be obtained even by persons with heavier figures.

Single-breasted jackets are better for this type than double-breasted which add another fold of material and more bulk across the center of the figure already bulky.

A buttoned jacket is more flattering to a full figure revealed inside the openihg. A blouse of a contrasting color draws attention more to the center of the figure, so this, too, should be avoided. A jacket can help hide your figure problems if it is chosen correctly. A slightly longer jacket is more flattering to a heavier figure.

Nor are all coats attractive on larger women. Consider how a coat looks from the back when trying it on in the store. It's usually from the back that a coat looks worst, if it is a poor choice for a figure with large hips.

Most coats are either straight up and down or A-line shape with fullness at the side. Often this side flare seems to enlarge the width of the hips.

A tight fitting coat around the hipline only accentuates the width there and causes wrinkles at the waist line. A better choice is a coat which hangs from loose fullness at the neck and shoulders and is loose enough around the hips so that they are completely hidden.

Fabick's Angus

Steers Winners

GRANOIN -- Francis J. Fabick, secretary of the John Fabick Tractor Company, St. Louis, and owner of the 2,300-acre Little Women ranch, added another blue ribbon to his collection at the American Royal livestock show in Kansas City.

For the second year in a row, his herd of choice Aberdeen Angus steers won first prize in the Carload Commercial Aberdeen Angus stocker calves division.

The 49-head herd weighed in at 455 pounds per animal. They were judged by the association to be first out of 65 Angus herds competing in the commercial stocker and feeder division.

Joint Obligation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University have an obligation to help ease a housing shortage here caused by expansion of the two schools, says the president of MIT, Howard W. Johnson.

Johnson said officials of the two schools would sit down soon with city representatives to map plans for a coordinated housing program. Top priority, he said, is low- and moderate-income housing.

BLOOMFIELD - There has been quite a bit of speculation among farmers and others in this area during the recent months as to what would happen as far as soybean prices are concerned. Just recently, we received a soybean outlook report from our agricultural economists at the University of Missouri. The purpose of this article is to give you a brief summary of their predictions concerning soybeans.

As you probably know, we began a new marketing year as far as soybeans are concerned on September 1. The total supply of soybeans for the coming year is estimated at around 950 million bushels. This supply includes an estimated carryover of 30 million bushels on September 1 and an estimated production from the current crop of 926 million bushels. This is the first year on record when the total supply has passed the 900 million bushel mark. In fact, 1965 was the only previous year when supplies exceeded 800 million bushels.

The demand for soybeans during this marketing year will exceed that of any previous year. The crush here in this county is expected to amount to around 570 million bushels compared to 535 million bushels crushed last year which was the record crush up to that point.

Prices paid to farmers for soybeans during this harvest season are expected to average well above the support price of $2.50 per bushel. As you know, soybean prices have ranged in general from $2.75 to $2.85 per bushel recently. During the 1965 harvest season, soybean prices in Missouri averaged $2.38 per bushel from September to December, but rose sharply over the remainder of the marketing year. In fact, prices ranged from a low of $2.31 per bushel in November to a peak of $3.37 per bushel in July of this year. Unfortunately, for farmers in general, two-thirds of the soybean crop had moved into trade channels by January 1; consequently, most farmers did not benefit directly by this sharp price increase. Price movements during this marketing year are expected to be quite different. This year's prices are starting out considerably higher than a year ago, but will probably not show as much seasonal increase as they did during the past marketing year. Historically, farmers hold a larger percentage of their soybeans on the farm during years following sharp increases in prices. Consequently, a larger-than-average amount of the soybeans can be expected to stay of farms during this marketing year.

Because of the limited availability of soybeans and high soybean prices, bean exports are expected to decline during the coming year. The rate of export movement will depend largely on the price level after the fall harvest and the availability of competing oil crops from other countries.

In summary, the 1966-67 marketing year for soybeans which began on September 1 appears to be another year in which the supply of and demand for beans will be in close balance. If the 1966 soybean crop materializes as reported on September 1, bean supplies will be tight for the third consecutive year, and a minimum carryover of beans is anticipated for September 1, 1967.

Beale Street Slated for Facelifting

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- They closed up Beale Street 50 years ago and now they're going to clean it up, as befits a national history landmark.

Friday, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and the widow of Beale Street's most illustrous son, William Christopher Handy, were on hand for the ceremonies that declared, nine squalid blocks in the heart of Memphis to be, officially, a part of Americana.

For Mrs. Handy, the street holds few memories. She was the second wife of the blues composer, and married him long after he had abandoned Memphis for New York.

She welcomes the $20-million facelifting job scheduled for Beale Street as part of an urban renewal program still in its planning stages.

"It'll be a nice sight to see when it's done all over," said Mrs. Handy, now 64, in an interview at her home in Yonkers, N.Y.

Handy Park, and its towering bronze statue of the musician-composer, will remain untouched by urban renewal. Precious little else will survive the bulldozers which clear the way for a combination residential-commercial neighborhood.

While the planners hope to preserve as much of Beale Street's flavor as possible, only about 70 buildings on the short, narrow street that runs from the Mississippi River to Manassas Street are considered to be structurally sound. It is the worst slum in the city, a row of tightly packed, dreary tenements, pawn shops, pool halls, grimy cafes and cut-rate stores.

If you see a neighbor applying Treflan this week...
Don't laugh.
Now you can apply Treflan® in the fall for dependable weed control next season
This new idea in weed control was tested for two years. Results proved it as effective as spring applications of Treflan. Great idea for growers planting cotton or soybeans on heavy soils that are tough to work in the spring. Come in soon. We're well stocked with Treflan.

$5,000 or over a year	10,563,000	31.9
Widowed, divorced, or separated	5,908,000	17.8

Well over half of all American working women are married and at least half hold down jobs not to pick up pin money but out of economic necessity, the Labor Department's Women's Bureau reports. In a recent study, based upon statistics gathered in 1964, the bureau found that most working wives came from homes where the husband's income was below the adequate level. Need also drove most single women and nearly all widowed, divorced and separated women into the job market.

Matthews Girl Wins 4-H Trip

COLUMBIA -- Nine 4-H club members were named winners today of expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, according to Frank Graham, extension youth leader at the University of Missouri.

This brings to 27 the Missourians selected so far to attend the national meeting of top 4-H club members, Graham said.

The trip winners and their area of achievement are: Miss Betty Moore, California, Mo., leadership; Phillip Noellsch, Westboro, tractor; Howard Hellwig, Butler, dairy; Glen Liesser, Higginsville, horsemanship; Donald Porter Palmyra, woodworking; Darwin Houghton, Tarkio, gardening; Miss Janice Sue Harms, Higginsville, beautification; Miss Mamie Alberta Flowers, Matthews, overall achievement; and Miss Lois Marie Noellsch, Tarkio, home economics.

The Missouri delegates will participate in the Club Congress with 4-H'ers from all other states. Theme of the program will be "Pursuit of Excellence". The educational trips are financed by sponsoring companies.

Selection for these awards is based on the club members' 4-H records. The records will be placed in national competition for college scholarships.

Miss Flowers, 17, has advanced to state competition in public speaking. Last year she advanced to district competition in 4-H dress revue.

She has been a junior leader three years, helping younger members in the foods project and in conducting club meetings. She has served two years as treasurer of the Big Ridge Challengers 4-H Club of New Madrid County. At State 4-H Short Course, she was elected secretary.

"My 4-H work in citizenship has helped me to become a better member of my group of friends and to share my knowledge and experience with them," Miss Flowers reports. She plans to become a teacher.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flowers.

Cotton Prices Steady in State

HAYTI - Cotton prices were steady on local markets in Missouri this week. Mixed lots of low middling through strict low middling plus with 1-1/16 inches and longer staples brought from 23 to 23.50 cents a pound at most locations. Middling and higher grades in the same staple lengths brought from 25 to 25.75 cents a pound. Demand was strong for cotton with these grades and staples with mike readings in the 3.5 to 4.9 range. Farmers offered cotton freely at the current level of prices and buying was active. Gin yard prices for cottonseed were steady and ranged from $60 to $65 per ton.

The volume of samples classed for farmers at the Hayti Classing Office picked up from the previous week. 17,000 samples were classed during the week before. Classings for the season so far totaled 63,000 against 324,400 to the same date a year ago.

The quality of cotton classed last week was about unchanged from the previous week. Strict low middling was the predominant grade, accounting for 56 per cent of all cotton classed. Middling was the next highest percentage at 14 per cent, and strict low middling light spotted made up 9 per cent. Cotton averaged somewhat longer in staple last week, with 1-3/32 inches accounting for 54 per cent; 36 per cent was 1-1/16 inches, and 1-1/8 inches accounted for 8 per cent. 96 per cent of all cotton classed miked in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9.

The harvest was back in full swing this week after several days' delay caused by rainy weather. This is expected to be the peak week for the harvest provided favorable weather continues.

DISENCHANTED DISTANCE

It's twenty-five million miles to Venus
It's forty-nine million miles to Mars
And five or six trillion miles between us
And the nearest neighboring stars.
Imagine that! I'm trying to
But can't, and neither, I'll bet, can you!
So for me to race through the aisles of space
Would be dotty as it can be
When even a hop in an old jet-prop
Scares the daylights out of me.

Moderate Price Changes in the Live Stock Mart

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., - Live stock markets showed mixed results during the week under more moderate receipts and slaughter, according to Producers Live Stock Marketing Association. Salable cattle, calves, hogs and sheep of slightly more than 50,000 head were down from week ago and year ago arrivals of 58,796 and 53,440 head, respectively.

In the hog trade barrows and gilts closed 25¢ to 50¢ higher, top Friday $22.00 cwt. as compared to peaks of $21.50 a week ago and $24.00 a year ago. The best demand was for weights under 225 lbs. Sows finished steady to 25¢ lower, the late top $19.50.

Buying of cattle was again selective. High Good and Choice slaughter steers figured steady to 25¢ higher, Standard and Good kinds steady to weak. Sales of slughter heifers were steady to 25¢ higher, but cows were under considerable pressure and closed 50¢ to mostly $1 down. Bulls remained unchanged.

A few loads and scattered lots of average and high Choice steers, some with an end of Prime, 950 to 110 lbs. reached $25 to $25.50, followed by Choice 900 to 1050 lbs. at $24.75 to $25.25; 1050 to 1300 lbs. $24.25 to $25; mixed Good and choice 850 to 1175 lbs. $24 to $25; Good 900 to 1200 lbs. $23 to $24.50.

A load and few lots Choice and mixed Choice and Prime heifers 800 to 900 lbs. $24 to $24.25; Choice 750 to 1000 lbs. $23.50 to $24; mixed Good and low Choice $23.25 to $23.50; Good mostly $22 to $23.25, a few Standard $19 to $22.

Utility and Commercial cows closed at $15.50 to $17, odd head $17.50. Canner and Cutter cows $12.50 to $16, shelly Canner $10 to $12.50.

Feeder cattle and calves were moderately active and steady to 50¢ lower. In Thursday's auction Choice 275 to 550-lb. steers realized $25.20 to $27.90, lot 310 lbs. $28.25. Choice 300 to 600-lb. heifers $22.90 to $23.90, package 718 lbs. $22.20.

Veal calves continued to recieve good support, Choice $30 to $34, a few head $35. Slaughter lambs finished steady to 50¢ lower, Choice and Prime 80 to 110 lbs. $23.50. Choice $22 to $23.

WOMEN AT WORK

Marital status	Number	Percent distribution
Total	33,146,000	100.00
Single	7,966,000	24.0
Married (husband present)	19,276,000	58.2
With husband whose income was:
Below $3,000 a year	3,990,000	12.0
$3,000 to $4,999 a year	4,723,000	14.2
$5,000 or over a year	10,563,000	31.9
Widowed, divorced, or separated	5,908,000	17.8

Well over half of all American working women are married and at least half hold down jobs not to pick up pin money but out of economic necessity, the Labor Department's Women's Bureau reports. In a recent study, based upon statistics gathered in 1964, the bureau found that most working wives came from homes where the husband's income was below the adequate level. Need also drove most single women and nearly all widowed, divorced and separated women into the job market.

Matthews Girl Wins 4-H Trip

COLUMBIA -- Nine 4-H club members were named winners today of expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, according to Frank Graham, extension youth leader at the University of Missouri.

This brings to 27 the Missourians selected so far to attend the national meeting of top 4-H club members, Graham said.

The trip winners and their area of achievement are: Miss Betty Moore, California, Mo., leadership; Phillip Noellsch, Westboro, tractor; Howard Hellwig, Butler, dairy; Glen Liesser, Higginsville, horsemanship; Donald Porter Palmyra, woodworking; Darwin Houghton, Tarkio, gardening; Miss Janice Sue Harms, Higginsville, beautification; Miss Mamie Alberta Flowers, Matthews, overall achievement; and Miss Lois Marie Noellsch, Tarkio, home economics.

The Missouri delegates will participate in the Club Congress with 4-H'ers from all other states. Theme of the program will be "Pursuit of Excellence". The educational trips are financed by sponsoring companies.

Selection for these awards is based on the club members' 4-H records. The records will be placed in national competition for college scholarships.

Miss Flowers, 17, has advanced to state competition in public speaking. Last year she advanced to district competition in 4-H dress revue.

She has been a junior leader three years, helping younger members in the foods project and in conducting club meetings. She has served two years as treasurer of the Big Ridge Challengers 4-H Club of New Madrid County. At State 4-H Short Course, she was elected secretary.

"My 4-H work in citizenship has helped me to become a better member of my group of friends and to share my knowledge and experience with them," Miss Flowers reports. She plans to become a teacher.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flowers.

Cotton Prices Steady in State

HAYTI - Cotton prices were steady on local markets in Missouri this week. Mixed lots of low middling through strict low middling plus with 1-1/16 inches and longer staples brought from 23 to 23.50 cents a pound at most locations. Middling and higher grades in the same staple lengths brought from 25 to 25.75 cents a pound. Demand was strong for cotton with these grades and staples with mike readings in the 3.5 to 4.9 range. Farmers offered cotton freely at the current level of prices and buying was active. Gin yard prices for cottonseed were steady and ranged from $60 to $65 per ton.

The volume of samples classed for farmers at the Hayti Classing Office picked up from the previous week. 17,000 samples were classed during yhe week before. Classings for the season so far totaled 63,000 against 324,400 to the same date a year ago.

The quality of cotton classed last week was about unchanged from the previous week. Strict low middling was the predominant grade, accounting for 56 per cent of all cotton classed. Middling was the next highest percentage at 14 per cent, and strict low middling light spotted made up 9 per cent. Cotton averaged somewhat longer in staple last week, with 1-3/32 inches accounting for 54 per cent; 36 per cent was 1-1/16 inches, and 1-1/8 inches accounted for 8 per cent. 96 per cent of all cotton classed miked in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9.

The harvest was back in full swing this week after several days' delay caused by rainy weather. This is expected to be the peak week for the harvest provided favorable weather continues.

DISENCHANTED DISTANCE

It's twenty-five million miles to Venus
It's forty-nine million miles to Mars
And five or six trillion miles between us
And the nearest neighboring stars.
Imagine that! I'm trying to
But can't, and neither, I'll bet, can you!
So for me to race through the aisles of space
Would be dotty as it can be
When even a hop in an old jet-prop
Scares the daylights out of me.

Dairymen to Meet in Jackson

JACKSON - Dairymen will meet Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Riverside regional library.

Fred Kollmeyer of Farmington, president of district 9 of the American Dairy Association of Missouri, will preside. District directors are Charles Engelhart and Nelson Kieninger, both of Jackson; Pervis Sebaugh, Daisy; Melvin Cleve, Farmington; O. A. Ernst, Perryville; and R. P. Schuchart, Jr., Sikeston.

Counties located in District #9: Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Carter, Crawford, Dunklin, Iron, Madison, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Reynolds, Ripley, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Scott, Stoddard, Washington, and Wayne.

Dairymen, their wives, and others interested in dairying are invited. Directors will be elected. There will be a review of the 1966 activities, and a look at the program for 1967. Refreshments will be served and prizes given.

Moderate Prices Changes in the Live Stock Mart

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., - Live stock markets showed mixed results during the week under more moderate receipts and slaughter, according to Producers Live Stock Marketing Association. Salable cattle, calves, hogs and sheep of slightly more than 50,000 head were down from week ago and year ago arrivals of 58,796 and 53,440 head, respectively.

In the hog trade barrows and gilts closed 25¢ to 50¢ higher, top Friday $22.00 cwt. as compared to peaks of $21.50 a week ago and $24.00 a year ago. The best demand was for weights under 225 lbs. Sows finished steady to 25¢ lower, the late top $19.50.

Buying of cattle was again selective. High Good and Choice slaughter steers figured steady to 25¢ higher, Standard and Good kinds steady to weak. Sales of slughter heifers were steady to 25¢ higher, but cows were under considerable pressure and closed 50¢ to mostly $1 down. Bulls remained unchanged.

A few loads and scattered lots of average and high Choice steers, some with an end of Prime, 950 to 110 lbs. reached $25 to $25.50, followed by Choice 900 to 1050 lbs. at $24.75 to $25.25; 1050 to 1300 lbs. $24.25 to $25; mixed Good and choice 850 to 1175 lbs. $24 to $25; Good 900 to 1200 lbs. $23 to $24.50.

A load and few lots Choice and mixed Choice and Prime heifers 800 to 900 lbs. $24 to $24.25; Choice 750 to 1000 lbs. $23.50 to $24; mixed Good and low Choice $23.25 to $23.50; Good mostly $22 to $23.25, a few Standard $19 to $22.

Utility and Commercial cows closed at $15.50 to $17, odd head $17.50. Canner and Cutter cows $12.50 to $16, shelly Canner $10 to $12.50.

Feeder cattle and calves were moderately active and steady to 50¢ lower. In Thursday's auction Choice 275 to 550-lb. steers realized $25.20 to $27.90, lot 310 lbs. $28.25. Choice 300 to 600-lb. heifers $22.90 to $23.90, package 718 lbs. $22.20. Veal calves continued to recieve good support, Choice $30 to $34, a few head $35. Slaughter lambs finished steady to 50¢ lower, Choice and Prime 80 to 110 lbs. $23.50. Choice $22 to $23.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
October 29, 1916

Sikeston felt honored when it was learned that one of her boys would be entered in the State W.C.T.U. Medal Contest, and now the news comes that Dallas Beauchamp won the highest honors afforded by the state and has been awarded the Grand Diamond Medal. The contest was held in Moberly Tuesday night. Dallas has won four medals within the past year, winning the first three in six weeks' time.

Ichabod Crane, that creature of Washington Irving's imagination, is not the only one who has seen a headless ghosts. A watchman at one of the mills, passing a partly filled well on his rounds one night this week saw a headless woman, dressed in black, arise from the well. Thinking it a boy with a dress over his head, the man ran after the headless apparition. It also ran, walked up a barbed wire fence and disappeared.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Felix Keath, a daughter this week.

Matthews -- Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Mainord and children and Mrs. Nannie Mainord of New Madrid were Matthews visitors Sunday.

The Revs. J.O. Ensor, and S.P. Brite and E.B. Hensley went hickory nutting Tuesday after having cast their ballots. They went down eight miles south of East Prairie and were rewarded by finding a bushel and a half of large shelled nuts. They remained out during the day, cooking their lunches and eating it in the woods.

Miss Vivian Howard, a 23-year-old teacher in the Diehlstadt Consolidated School, suffered severe lacerations on her head and neck Sunday night in an automobile accident a mile north of Van Buren. Miss Bertram Bradford, also a teacher at Diehlstadt, who was driving, Miss Marie Lucille Ohmes, 16-year-old student of Charleston, and Frances Stricker, 23, also of Charleston, suffered from shock, but were only slightly injured.

Patsy Ruth Gentles entertained with a masquerade party Thursday night at her home on Kendall street.

Mrs. Mattie Grisson, an aunt of Mrs. John Fox of Sikeston, died in East Prairie Tuesday night of the infirmities of age. She was 87 years old and was the last surviving member of her family.

The Welter Bake Shop will be enlarged and redecorated this fall. Hary Martin will begin this week to construct a 20 by 20 foot tile addition on the rear of the shop. It will be used for the bakery ovens.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A bunch of the buys in my platoon want to know what to do about a problem that bugs a lot of us.

When a guy takes a girl to dinner, is it considered bad manners to tell her that she should go ahead and order whatever she wants and not to worry about the price?

Some of the fellows -- me for instance -- just happen to like ground steak or fish but we don't want our girls to think that we are ordering it just because it is the cheapest thing on the menu.

I have taken out some great chicks who have looked at the menu and then said, "I'll have whatever you have." I am sure they are trying to be careful with my money.

I like to show a girl a real good time, Ann. What is the proper way to handle this problem? -- FORT HOOD, TEXAS

Dear Fort Hood: The best way to do it is let the girl order first. If she insists on waiting to hear what you're going to have, go ahead and tell her that she may not like your choice.

It's how you treat a gal and not what she eats on a date that determines what kind of a time she has, so I wouldn't pay too much attention to whether she orders a sirloin or the spaghetti.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what to do about a husband who will not let me have any money. I have been married to Bruno for 35 years and have been kept completely in the dark about money matters. Also, he has a thing about cash. He won't let me have any.

We have a grown family, a lovely home, a new car and a joint checking account. But every bit of cash is in Bruno's wallet -- and he takes it to work. You have no idea how humiliating it is to turn the house upside down looking for a dollar to give the March of Dimes or the Red Cross. I have to ask for a dime when I want to buy a spool of thread.

Bruno is good to me in all other ways, but his peculiarity about cash is driving me crazy. Advise me, please. -- COMFORTABLE BUT PENNILESS.

Dear C. But P.: Did you say you had a joint checking account? Well, for heaven's sake, Lady, write yourself a check for $20 and live like a human being. If you've been sitting on a joint checking account for 35 years and asking your husband for a dime to buy a spool of thread, you're as wacky as he is.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 10 months. I have a very good job here in this college town and my husband is working on his master's degree. The problem is my parents.

They have furnished our apartment, down to the last teaspoon. My mother has strong ideas and this apartment looks like her home, not mine. I don't object to this but my husband does.

Furthermore, the gifts continue to pour in almost daily from Mom and Dad and this is causing real trouble between my husband and me. I have tried to explain to him they are big-hearted and want me to have nice things. He says these gifts are ruining his self-respect and that I must put a stop to it.

How can I do it without hurting their feelings? They have been just wonderful. -- SMOTHERED WITH LOVE.

Dear Smothered: Simply tell your folks that their generosity is causing marital problems and that in the future all gifts will be returned. Then keep your word. The success of your marriage may depend on it -- and obviously, that success is more precious than ANY gift.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Prayer
For Today
From the Upper Room

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1966

This command comes to us from Christ himself: that he who loves God must also love his brother. (I John 4;21 NEB)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, I love Thee for all Thou hast done for me through Jesus Christ. Help me to love my brother as Thou dost love me. Help me as I try to do Thy will. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Tourist Travel in State Up

JEFFERSON CITY -- Tourist travel and recreation in Missouri continued its upward spiral during 1966, according to the travel and recreation section of the state division of commerce and industrial development.

E. B. Kinder, director of this phase of the division's activities, reports that a preliminary study shows, that in some areas, an increase of 14 to 22 per cent was recorded in the state's tourist industry during the vacation season.

"We have just enjoyed one of the greatest tourist seasons the state has ever known," Kinder said, "and, all indications point to 1967 surpassing the 1966 record.

The director said that many resort owners were planning expansions and improvements in their facilities to better accommodate and entertain the influx of vacation - bound travelers expected next year. "It is most important that all persons visiting Missouri and own citizens be offered the best in service, courtesy, entertainment and physical accommodations." Kinder added. "It must be remembered that a satisfied vacationer is one that is likely to return year after year -- and this could be the secret of our ever increasing tourist business."

Kinder said that Missouri would have booths in nine sports and travel shows in several states during the early part of next year to encourage vacationing in the state.

Missouri will be represented by a travel booth in California, in the Cow Palace at the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show in early February. "Some people may wonder why we advertise and promote travel in Missouri in a state like California. It is many miles away and also noted as a vacation state, but the answer is simple. Statistics show that residents of California rank third in number among the out - of - state visitors vacationing in Missouri. "We must have something they like to come and see," he added. "And, if we already have that many there is undoubtedly thousands of others who would like to know more about Missouri."

The first of the 1967 sports and travel shows in which Missouri will have a booth is the Kansas City Boat, Sports and Travel Show opening at the Municipal Auditorium Jan. 27 and continuing through Feb. 5.

HOMER EDWARD ADAMS recently enlisted in the U.S. Army for a period of three years, it was reported today by Sergeant First Class A. B. Ledbetter of the U.S. Army recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Adams enlisted under the Army's "Choice Not Chance" "Vocational Training program. His choice of enlistment was for Regular Army Unlimited. He is now undergoing basic training, where he will learn military courtesy and customs, basic close order drill, troop information and the uniform code of military justice, weapon training, leadership training, chemical-biological and atomic warfare, map reading, squad tactics, first aid, and intelligence training. His mother Mrs. Vivian Wimberly resides at Rt. 1, Sikeston, Mo.

For more information about the "Vocational Training" program contact Sfc Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

LONG BINH, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- Army Private First Class James W. Blumenberg, 20, son of Mrs. Ozie M. Hutchason, Anniston, Mo., recently arrived in Vietnam with his unit, the 570th Supply Company. The unit is part of the 1st Logistical Command.

A signal parts specialist in the company stationed near Long Binh, Pvt. Blumenberg entered on active duty last March and was last stationed at Ft. Carson, Colo.

Blumenberg, whose father, W. H. Blumenberg, lives in Anniston, is a 1964 graduate of Anniston High School.

His wife, Bonnie. lives on Route 2, Box 132, East Prairie.

FAIRCHILD AIR FORCE BASE, WASH. -- Six of the Strategic Air Command bomb wings entered in the 1966 SAC Combat Competition here have been based in the Western Pacific and have flown combat missions over South Vietnam.

The most recent returnees from combat missions in South Vietnam are the 484th Bomb Wing, Turner AFB, Ga., and the 28th Bomb Wing from Ellsworth AFB, S. D.

The aircraft representing the Ellsworth wing, which returned Sept. 11, completed 81 combat missions. A jet engine mechanic from the 28th Bomb Wing, Staff Sergeant Ray T. Nichols, said that everything connected with the maintenance portion of the missions went "very smoothly."

"We worked long hours," the sergeant said, "but not one complained because they knew that an important job had to be done."

Another returnee from the Western Pacific is the 454th Bomb Wing of Columbus AFB, Miss. The Columbus wing won the Fairchild Trophy for excellence in bombing and navigation in the 1965 SAC Competition held in September. Three months later the wing was flying combat missions over South Vietnam.

The 320th Bomb Wing of Mather AFB, Calif., will also be vying for honors in the 1966 version of the competition. The 320th was the pioneer bomber unit from SAC to be deployed to the Western Pacific.

The other two SAC units which have combat experience are the Bomb Wing, Carswell AFB, Tex., and the 2nd Bomb Wing, Barksdale, AFB, La.

Tommy E. Elliott On U.S.S. Biddle

MOREHOUSE -- Tommy E. Elliott, son of Mrs. Margaret Hill, has enlisted in the navy for three years.

He took his basic training at the Great Lakes, Ill., training center.

He spent a 15-day leave at home them left for Norfolk, Va., where he will be based on the U. S. S. Biddle.

He is a 1966 graduate of Morehouse high school.

HEARTS ARE TRUMPS

For 20 years, police in a Toronto suburb took special care of a kind spinster schoolteacher they thought was nearly destitute.

It all started when Miss Mary Clara Tucker became ill while shopping and was helped by a policeman.

"I stopped the cruiser and took her to her home," Sgt. Joseph Holbrook says. "She wasn't very well so I would stop by in the squad car and check on her every day to make sure she was getting along all right."

When she began improving, he asked Miss Tucker to phone his home at 2 p.m. every Sunday to report that she was well.

"She almost never missed that call in 20 years," Sergeant Holbrook says.

Gradually she became friendly with other members of the Police Department in suburban Forest Hills. They called her Miss Mittens, because of all the mittens she knitted for them.

Miss Tucker died at the age of 85. Her will was probated and of her $111,131 estate she left $6,000 to Holbrook and another $6,000 jointly to 17 other members of the Metropolitan Toronto Police department.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
October 29, 1916

Sikeston felt honored when it was learned that one of her boys would be entered in the State W.C.T.U. Medal Contest, and now the news comes that Dallas Beauchamp won the highest honors afforded by the state and has been awarded the Grand Diamond Medal. The contest was held in Moberly Tuesday night. Dallas has won four medals within the past year, winning the first three in six weeks' time.

Ichabod Crane, that creature of Washington Irving's imagination, is not the only one who has seen a headless ghosts. A watchman at one of the mills, passing a partly filled well on his rounds one night this week saw a headless woman, dressed in black, arise from the well. Thinking it a boy with a dress over his head, the man ran after the headless apparition. It also ran, walked up a barbed wire fence and disappeared.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A bunch of the buys in my platoon want to know what to do about a problem that bugs a lot of us.

When a guy takes a girl to dinner, is it considered bad manners to tell her that she should go ahead and order whatever she wants and not to worry about the price?

Some of the fellows -- me for instance -- just happen to like ground steak or fish but we don't want our girls to think that we are ordering it just because it is the cheapest thing on the menu.

I have taken out some great chicks who have looked at the menu and then said, "I'll have whatever you have." I am sure they are trying to be careful with my money.

I like to show a girl a real good time, Ann. What is the proper way to handle this problem? -- FORT HOOD, TEXAS

Dear Fort Hood: The best way to do it is let the girl order first. If she insists on waiting to hear what you're going to have, go ahead and tell her that she may not like your choice.

It's how you treat a gal and not what she eats on a date that determines what kind of a time she has, so I wouldn't pay too much attention to whether she orders a sirloin or the spaghetti.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what to do about a husband who will not let me have any money. I have been married to Bruno for 35 years and have been kept completely in the dark about money matters. Also, he has a thing about cash. He won't let me have any.

We have a grown family, a lovely home, a new car and a joint checking account. But every bit of cash is in Bruno's wallet -- and he takes it to work. You have no idea how humiliating it is to turn the house upside down looking for a dollar to give the March of Dimes or the Red Cross. I have to ask for a dime when I want to buy a spool of thread.

Bruno is good to me in all other ways, but his peculiarity about cash is driving me crazy. Advise me, please. -- COMFORTABLE BUT PENNILESS.

Dear C. But P.: Did you say you had a joint checking account? Well, for heaven's sake, Lady, write yourself a check for $20 and live like a human being. If you've been sitting on a joint checking account for 35 years and asking your husband for a dime to buy a spool of thread, you're as wacky as he is.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 10 months. I have a very good job here in this college town and my husband is working on his master's degree. The problem is my parents.

They have furnished our apartment, down to the last teaspoon. My mother has strong ideas and this apartment looks like her home, not mine. I don't object to this but my husband does.

Furthermore, the gifts continue to pour in almost daily from Mom and Dad and this is causing real trouble between my husband and me. I have tried to explain to him they are big-hearted and want me to have nice things. He says these gifts are ruining his self-respect and that I must put a stop to it.

How can I do it without hurting their feelings? They have been just wonderful. -- SMOTHERED WITH LOVE.

Dear Smothered: Simply tell your folks that their generosity is causing marital problems and that in the future all gifts will be returned. Then keep your word. The success of your marriage may depend on it -- and obviously, that success is more precious than ANY gift.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Prayer
For Today
From the Upper Room

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1966

This command comes to us from Christ himself: that he who loves God must also love his brother. (I John 4:21 NEB)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, I love Thee for all Thou hast done for me through Jesus Christ. Help me to love my brother as Thou dost love me. Help me as I try to do Thy will. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Tourist Travel in State Up

JEFFERSON CITY -- Tourist travel and recreation in Missouri continued its upward spiral during 1966, according to the travel and recreation section of the state division of commerce and industrial development.

E. B. Kinder, director of this phase of the division's activities, reports that a preliminary study shows, that in some areas, an increase of 14 to 22 per cent was recorded in the state's tourist industry during the vacation season.

"We have just enjoyed one of the greatest tourist seasons the state has ever known," Kinder said, "and, all indications point to 1967 surpassing the 1966 record.

The director said that many resort owners were planning expansions and improvements in their facilities to better accommodate and entertain the influx of vacation - bound travelers expected next year. "It is most important that all persons visiting Missouri and own citizens be offered the best in service, courtesy, entertainment and physical accommodations." Kinder added. "It must be remembered that a satisfied vacationer is one that is likely to return year after year -- and this could be the secret of our ever increasing tourist business."

Kinder said that Missouri would have booths in nine sports and travel shows in several states during the early part of next year to encourage vacationing in the state.

Missouri will be represented by a travel booth in California, in the Cow Palace at the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show in early February. "Some people may wonder why we advertise and promote travel in Missouri in a state like California. It is many miles away and also noted as a vacation state, but the answer is simple. Statistics show that residents of California rank third in number among the out - of - state visitors vacationing in Missouri. "We must have something they like to come and see," he added. "And, if we already have that many there is undoubtedly thousands of others who would like to know more about Missouri."

The first of the 1967 sports and travel shows in which Missouri will have a booth is the Kansas City Boat, Sports and Travel Show opening at the Municipal Auditorium Jan. 27 and continuing through Feb. 5.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Oct. 29, the 302nd day of 1966. There are 63 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, the first national lottery was held to determine the order of drafting Selective Service registrants. The first number drawn was 158.

On this date:

In 1814, the first warship to be propelled by steam was launched. Christened "Fulton the First," it had been built for the Navy by Robert Fulton.

In 1923, the Republic of Turkey was proclaimed.

In 1943, Lt. Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army occupied Mondragone, Italy.

In 1944, Adm. Chester Nimitz announced the score of the six-day Philippines Sea naval battle — 24 Japanese ships sunk against six U.S. fleet units sunk.

Ten years ago—Israeli armed forces struck deep into Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, the Israeli Foreign Ministry stating that the operation's purpose was to eliminate Egyptian commando bases in that area.

Five years ago—A passenger train derailed in India, killing 19 persons on board and injuring another 52.

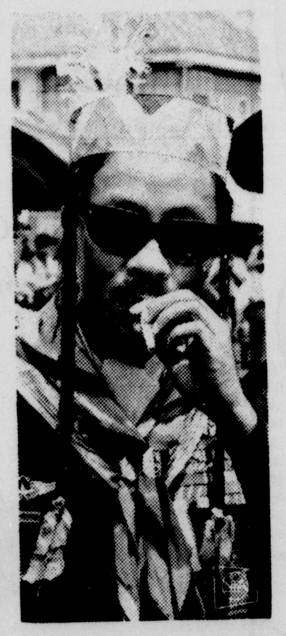

One year ago—Luci Johnson flew to the family ranch in Texas with Pat Nugent amid rumors the President's daughter was seeking the consent of her parents to marry Nugent.

Two days before departing for our annual two-week summer training period my Army Reserve unit was notified it would definitely be included in any Reserve call-up President Johnson might order as a result of the situation in Viet Nam. As a result, the 10 days or so of our training which preceded the press conference in which the President announced his decision were filled with rumors about our reentering military service for an indefinite period.

On the day of the Presidential announcement every officer in the battalion was clustered around the TV set in the dayroom of the BOQ. The President was unusually late in making his appearance and the suspence grew almost unbearable. The commentator described the scene, naming various officials who were present, etc. Just before the President appeared, however, the tension was broken by one young lieutenant who cracked: "If he comes in wearing fatiques, we're in trouble!"

The U.S. military command said the thunderous explosion in a U.S. Army ammunition depot 13 miles northeast of Saigon Friday night was preceded by a Viet Cong attack with grenades, automatic weapons and mortar fire. Two U.S. soldiers were killed. Between five and 10 others were wounded.

U.S. headquarters also reported that an Army CV2 Caribou troop transport plane crashed Friday while on a flight from Qui Nhon to An Khe in the central highlands. A spokesman said 20 U.S. service personnel were injured, one was killed and one was missing.

berg's speech would call for the removal of an estimated 47,000 to 50,000 North Vietnamese regulars now fighting in South Viet Nam in 70 battalions.

In addition, the hard-core infiltrators who form the political leadership for the Viet Cong also would be considered "external forces" that should be withdrawn, these officials said.

These so-called cadres and support troops, estimated to number from 60,000 to 80,000 are used to direct and supply the local Viet Cong units, according to U.S. officials.

These officials believe the effectiveness of Viet Cong units would diminish rapidly if the hard-core leaders and regular North Vietnamese troops are removed.

This in turn would bring the reduction in violence that would permit the removal of U.S. and allied forces within six months.

U.S. and South Vietnamese intelligence units could determine by interrogation whether a Viet Cong was a native of the south or one of the infiltrators trained in the north, sources said.

Laird, chairman of the House Republican Conference, is not satisfied with the fuzziness surrounding the U.S. offer nor withdrawal, his aides said. He takes the position that no matter what the conditions are they should be spelled out clearly, the aides said.

Garner Services Set for Sunday

POPLAR BLUFF -- Services for Ramsay Garner, 40, who died Thursday will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Frank-Cotrell Funeral Home instead of the Fitch-Croy Funeral Home as was reported to the Sikeston Daily Standard Friday.

The Rev. Roger Guy will officiate.

Burial will be in the City cemetery.

Garner was a 1942 graduate of Sikeston high school and was an accountant of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

He was a member of the First Christian Church.

He worked at Oak Ridge, Tenn., on the Atomic Energy Commission project and later joined the Peter Kewitt and Sons Construction Co., an Iowa contracting firm, which he served as accountant-office manager for six years.

Indian Convert Once Helped Kill 5 Missionaries

By MARTIN ZUCKER

BERLIN (AP) — Among the delegates at the first World Congress on Evangelism is an Auca Indian from Ecuador who helped kill five American missionaries before he was converted to Christianity.

Kimo Yaeti (Red Squirrel), about 29, is a member of a tribe of fierce fighters who kill for revenge and for wives in the remote jungle of eastern Ecuador.

On Jan. 8, 1956, he and four other Aucas killed the missionaries, including a pilot, Nate Saint. The tribesmen readily admitted the slayings.

In 1961, Kimo became a Christian and last year helped baptize Saint's two children near the spot on a river where the massacre occurred.

Kimo chatted today in a hotel room with Saint's sister, Rachel Saint, of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., a missionary who has spent almost 20 years in Peru and Ecuador.

Miss Saint brought him to the congress with Komi, another Auca Christian. Komi's father, she said, was her brother's killer.

With Miss Saint translating his native language of Waodani, Kimo discussed his beliefs.

"I was often forced to go on (killing) raids. I was told, 'If you don't come, you'll be speared,'" he said. "Later, we heard that the word of God is stronger than the devil."

Vicki Crowson Honored at Birthday Party

Cup cakes, ice cream and sodas were served.

Guests were Donna Crowson, sister of the honoree; Teresa Ward, Phyllis Ward, Christi Cobb, Darla Jackson, Linda and Vicki Howell, Andrea Ayers, Jeanie Rogers, Connie Bryant, Mrs. Farrie Kelso, grandmother of the honoree; and Mrs. Violet Grigsby, the honoree's sister - in - law.

Angela Crowson and Terry Stewart sent gifts but were unable to attend.

H. L. Swanagon Now Colonel

Lt. Col. H. L. Swanagon, who is stationed in Guam, has been promoted to colonel.

His wife is the former Marie Lewis.

He is a graduate of Sikeston high school and is the nephew of Mrs. Hildreth Dill, Mrs. John Husher, Mrs. M. P. Tinder and Mrs. Glen Keller.

Destructive Epidemic

The 1918 flu epidemic was the most destructive in history. It ranks with the Black Death in lives taken. More than 20 million persons throughout the world died in a few months, 548,000 of them in the United States alone.

Created Coin's Design

The design for the U.S. buffalo nickel was created by artist James E. Fraser. He used as a model the great bull bison named Black Diamond that was then in the zoo at Central Park, New York City.

Registration Required in Five Days

BENTON - Selective Service registration is a requirement for young men as they reach 18, Henry A. Dunger, chairman of board 115 of Scott county, said today.

Young men are required to register for the draft within five days after reaching their 18th birthday. Registration may be accomplished at any local board office. Men who are away from their homes on their 18th birthday may go to any board in the area where they are located and register.

The draft board chairman asked that all registrants give their residence address. This determines the board that will have jurisdiction over the registrant's draft classification.

Members of reserve components of the armed forces, including the National Guard, are required to register. Only persons on active duty in the armed forces are not required to register. However, they must register within 30 days following separation from service if born after Aug. 30, 1922, and if they have not previously registered.

Shortly after registration each youth will receive a registration certificate, which he is required to have in his personal possession at all times. If the certificate is lost or destroyed, a duplicate may be applied for at the local board office.

Failure to comply with selective service registration requirements may result in action by the department of justice.

600 men — of the 4th were hit in the waves of attacks 6 to 15 miles west and northwest of Plei Djereng Special Forces camp.

The fighting in the central highlands—possibly the start of a new Communist drive—brought the North Vietnamese back into action after a lapse a few weeks since fighting died down along the demilitarized zone.

The flareup came during Operation Paul Revere IV, the fourth phase of an operation which began early last summer and which has been taken over by 4th Division troops.

Guam-based U.S. B52 bombers flew to the support of the 4th Division infantrymen today, unloading tons of high explosives on North Vietnamese base camps and staging areas six miles from the battle scene. The raid hammered at enemy positions 37 miles southwest of Kontum City.

In another raid today, other eight - engine B52s plastered suspected base camps, bivouac and ammunition storage areas of the 610th North Vietnamese Division near the central coast of South Viet Nam. This heavy bombing raid struck 50 miles northwest of Qui Nhon City for the third straight day and was in support of troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division in Operation Thayer II.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, there was little ground action. Continuing monsoon rain storms and generally poor weather limited U.S. air blows over North Viet Nam again Friday. Pilots flew only 47 bombing missions, a third of the usual number.

The U.S. military command announced that American plane losses for the war over North Viet Nam had reached 413 and those over South Viet Nam stood at 131.

The losses in the south included a previously unannounced loss of an Air Force F100 Super Sabre jet which went down last Wednesday 50 miles northwest of Saigon. The pilot was killed, a spokesman said.

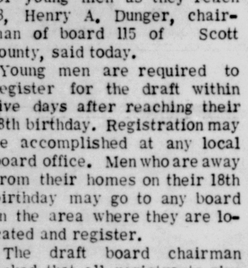

Elements of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade operating in a Viet Cong stronghold in Tay Ninh Province seized 75 tons of enemy rice in a heavily booby-trapped area 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

Vietnamese headquarters reported the termination of the big clash in the delta which started Thursday. Headquarters said Vietnamese rangers supported by U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes killed 147 Viet Cong in the action, and increase of 10 over the enemy toll announced Friday.

In another raid today, other eight - engine B52s plastered suspected base camps, bivouac and ammunition storage areas of the 610th North Vietnamese Division near the central coast of South Viet Nam. This heavy bombing raid struck 50 miles northwest of Qui Nhon City for the third straight day and was in support of troops of the U. S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division in Operation Thayer II.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, there was little ground action. Continuing monsoon rain storms and generally poor weather limited U.S. air blows over North Viet Nam again Friday. Pilots flew only 47 bombing missions, a third of the usual number.

The U.S. military command announced that American plane losses for the war over North Viet Nam had reached 413 and those over South Viet Nam stood at 131.

The losses in the south included a previously unannounced loss of an Air Force F100 Super Sabre jet which went down last Wednesday 50 miles northwest of Saigon. The pilot was killed, a spokesman said.

Elements of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade operating in a Viet Cong stronghold in Tay Ninh Province seized 75 tons of enemy rice in a heavily booby-trapped area 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

Vietnamese headquarters reported the termination of the big clash in the delta which started Thursday. Headquarters said Vietnamese rangers supported by U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes killed 147 Viet Cong in the action, and increase of 10 over the enemy toll announced Friday.

The U.S. military command said the thunderous explosion in a U.S. Army ammunition depot 13 miles northeast of Saigon Friday night was preceded by a Viet Cong attack with grenades, automatic weapons and mortar fire. Two U.S. soldiers were killed. Between five and 10 others were wounded.

U.S. headquarters also reported that an Army CV2 Caribou troop transport plane crashed Friday while on a flight from Qui Nhon to An Khe in the central highlands. A spokesman said 20 U.S. service personnel were injured, one was killed and one was missing.

berg's speech would call for the removal of an estimated 47,000 to 50,000 North Vietnamese regulars now fighting in South Viet Nam in 70 battalions.

In addition, the hard-core infiltrators who form the political leadership for the Viet Cong also would be considered "external forces" that should be withdrawn, these officials said.

These so-called cadres and support troops, estimated to number from 60,000 to 80,000 are used to direct and supply the local Viet Cong units, according to U. S. officials.

These officials believe the effectiveness of Viet Cong units would diminish rapidly if the hard-core leaders and regular North Vietnamese troops are removed.

This in turn would bring the reduction in violence that would permit the removal of U. S. and allied forces within six months.

U. S. and South Vietnamese intelligence units could determine by interrogation whether a Viet Cong was a native of the south or one of the infiltrators trained in the north, sources said.

Laird, chairman of the House Republican Conference, is not satisfied with the fuzziness surrounding the U. S. offer nor withdrawal, his aides said. He takes the position that no matter what the conditions are they should be spelled out clearly, the aides said.

Destructive Epidemic

The 1918 flu epidemic was the most destructive in history. It ranks with the Black Death in lives taken. More than 20 million persons throughout the world died in a few months, 548,000 of them in the United States alone.

Indian Convert Once Helped Kill 5 Missionaries

By MARTIN ZUCKER

BERLIN (AP) — Among the delegates at the first World Congress on Evangelism is an Auca Indian from Ecuador who helped kill five American missionaries before he was converted to Christianity.

Kimo Yaeti (Red Squirrel), about 29, is a member of a tribe of fierce fighters who kill for revenge and for wives in the remote jungle of eastern Ecuador.

On Jan. 8, 1956, he and four other Aucas killed the missionaries, including a pilot, Nate Saint. The tribesmen readily admitted the slayings.

In 1961, Kimo became a Christian and last year helped baptize Saint's two children near the spot on a river where the massacre occurred.

Kimo chatted today in a hotel room with Saint's sister, Rachel Saint, of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., a missionary who has spent almost 20 years in Peru and Ecuador.

Miss Saint brought him to the congress with Komi, another Auca Christian. Komi's father, she said, was her brother's killer.

"I was often forced to go on (killing) raids. I was told, 'If you don't come, you'll be speared,'" he said. "Later, we heard that the word of God is stronger than the devil."

Created Coin's Design

The design for the U.S. buffalo nickel was created by artist James E. Fraser. He used as a model the great bull bison named Black Diamond that was then in the zoo at Central Park, New York City.
